HOPE FOR DISAVOWAL BY BERLIN ON ARABIC

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Via Amsterdam, Aug. 25.—"Germany wants no war with the United States," was the emphatic assertion made by a high official of the German government to the International News Service today.

"We are confident that there will be no war," he continued. "The enemies of Germany are doing everything possible to cause difficulties, but we trust to the fair-mindedness of the American people to see through these efforts."

Referring to the sinking of the Arabic, the official called attention to the German Admiralty statement of July 14 that "German submarines are using every precaution to prevent loss of life on ships they attack."

"There has been no change in the policy of the admiralty since that statement was issued," he went on. "If the Arabic was intentionally sunk without warning, the commander of the submarine violated the admiralty's order and his act will be disavowed.

"According to reports that have reached here the commander of the Arabic admitted that he changed his course to approach another vessel, the Dunaley, that had been attacked by a submarine, but which was still afloat.

"It is possible that the Arabic crossed the path of a torpedo launched at the Dunaley.

"In such a case the submarine commander was not responsible. Only the captain of the Arabic can be blamed for the loss of his ship.

"We regret that any lives were lost when the Arabic was sunk. Germany is not warring upon non-combatants."

VON BERNSTORFF DOING ALL POSSIBLE TO AVERT RUPTURE

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, after a series of conferences at the Ritz Carlton on the crisis between the United States and Germany, is preparing to carry his plans to President Wilson.

While the ambassador declined to comment on his official statement, he made known, through a representative of the Hearst newspapers, that he will make every effort within his power to prevent a break between the United States and Germany.

POINTS FOR THE PRESIDENT.

Count von Bernstorff will ask for an interview with President Wilson, at which he will seek to emphasize these points:

1—Since the diplomatic conversations between Germany and the United States regarding the Frye, the Gulflight and the Cushing, Germany has not interfered with a single ship flying the American flag.

2—Every possible official precaution has been taken by the Thirty of the victims were Turks, eight were Greeks and three Armenians.

Dutch Ship Escapes German Mine Danger

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The Dutch steamer Nieuw Amsterdam arrived from Rotterdam today, having had a narrow escape from German mines.

At the Downs the ship was held up while mine sweepers cleared the channel. During these operations two mines exploded close to the Dutch vessel. Another ship near her was sunk.

BRITISH MAKE NEW GAIN ON GALLIPOLI

By International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—British troops at the Dardanelles, reinforced by troops recently landed at Suvla Bay, have resumed the offensive. The War Office today announced that the left wing of the English army had captured 800 yards of Turkish trenches.

The text of the official statement on the Dardanelles operation follows:

"At the Dardanelles the period of five days that has elapsed since the last communique has been marked in the northern zone by new progress of the left wing of the British army, which has captured 800 yards of enemy trenches.

"In the southern zone the operations have been limited to artillery actions and conflicts between patrols.

"During the night of August 23-24, one of our companies succeeded in making a surprise attack on a Turkish observation post. On the morning of August 24 a group of the enemy attempted to re-occupy it but was repulsed.

AIRMAN SINKS TRANSPORT.

"On August 20 our fleet bombarded successfully the point of disembarking at Akbashiliman on the Europe hill to the north of Nagara. Despite the violent fire of numerous batteries directed upon him, one of our aviators sunk at anchorage a large Turkish transport.

"Two allied cruisers penetrated the Dardanelles Sunday and bombarded the Turkish batteries at Kastanea, according to a dispatch from Mitylene.

"Four Turkish sloops carrying troops to Gallipoli peninsula and to Lapsaki, on the Dardanelles, were sunk today by a British submarine in the sea of Marmora.

"Constantinople dispatch says that the Turkish minister of war has ordered 40,000 reinforcements sent to Gallipoli peninsula.

THINKS VICTORY NEAR.

Optimistic reports concerning operations on the Gallipoli peninsula are in circulation and prophecies are made that a few weeks will see the close of the allies' difficult task in the near east. The Turks, too, expect the Anglo-French forces to be successful, if news reaching Sofia from Constantinople is reliable.

In fact, it is felt here now that, so far as the Dardanelles are concerned, it is a matter of indifference to the allies whether the Balkan States lend a hand. Their assistance is wanted, however, against Austria and also to shorten Turkish resistance if the straits are opened.

Charge Graft in French Army Grain

By International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—Charges of graft in government grain contracts amounting to $400,000 are in the hands of the Budget committee of the Chamber of Deputies, having been made in a secret report by Deputy Dessen. The irregularities took place in the purchase of wheat for the army, it is said. Lucien Hammond, one of the biggest wheat dealers in France, handled the contracts. According to Dessen, the grain agent induced the military supply department to accept a quotation of $4.76 for wheat when the market price was fluctuating around $4.

NAVAL 'BATTLE' FOR STATE CHIEFS' PARTY

Aboard the dreadnought Wyoming, the visiting Governors and their wives and daughters sailed down Boston Harbor today and reviewed, off Boston Light, the mighty fleet awaiting them there.

After the review the fleet went through battle evolutions for their benefit, giving the inland visitors an idea of what naval warfare actually means.

ROUTE OF THE PARADE BY THE STATE TROOPS

Here is the route of tomorrow's great militia parade, the final military spectacle Boston will see. Cut this out, save it, use as your guide tomorrow.

Parade forms—at Beacon and Arlington streets.
Starts at 1 p. m.
Route of march:

Milk street to Broad street,
Broad street to State street,
State street to Court street,
Court street to Scollay Square,
Tremont street to Beacon street,
Beacon street, past the State House, to the review at Charles street and Beacon.

The skies smiled on the review. A rainy night and a dull morning vanished before the sun at noon time, and the visitors saw Massachusetts Bay at its best.

The guests went aboard the Wyoming at the Charlestown Navy Yard. The Wyoming, the largest battleship that ever entered Boston harbor, was tied up along the end of the piers, instead of being in one of the slips.

The Governors, from their morning session of the conference, were taken to the yard by automobile. Their wives and daughters, who had been shopping, joined them. Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels also appeared. By a little after noon the entire party was aboard the Wyoming. Luncheon was served immediately aboard the battleship. While this was in progress the sail down the harbor began.

WYOMING TOWED OUT.

Fussy little tugs hauled the Wyoming into the stream, pushed and prodded and pestered her around till her stern was pointed toward Chelsea.

Then the big vessel took things into her own hands. Her propellers whirled. She nosed thoughtfully ahead, gathered leverage way, and swung into her course.

Whereupon every siren and whistle in the harbor bellowed and shrieked greetings to the ship and her distinguished passengers.

Flags were dipped by way of salute, and from the thousands of people along the waterfront, from every pier and dock, went up cheer after cheer.

The flagship went at slow speed down the harbor. The Governors and their party were busy with luncheon.

The time she approached the Light luncheon was disposed of and everybody flocked on deck for the spectacle of the afternoon.

The flock of small craft which had filed the battleship swung into line behind her. The dispatch boat Yankton was near at hand.

Long Wharf up and East Boston, and the Commonwealth Pier, from every vantage point, Boston watched the spectacle.

As Wyoming slowed and stopped at the station near the whistling buoy off Boston Light. When she had come to a standstill, Admiral Frank Friday Fletcher, in command, wirelessed his way, and the review began.

DESTROYERS LED THE LINE.

Four destroyers led the line. The gallant little craft, daredevils of the Navy, made a brave appearance. They carried, at twenty-five knots or so, their white bows slitting the water, their high prows shouldering the spray

Festa Postponed Until Tomorrow

The Italian Festa, which was to have been held on the state of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Lookout Hill, Gloucester, late today, has been postponed until tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock on account of the poor condition of the grounds, due to the heavy rain of last night. Complete arrangements had been made for today's affair, and every attempt was made to carry out the plans, but at the last moment it was found necessary to postpone it.

The visiting governors and their families were landed from the battleship Wyoming as planned, and entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Hammond at their Gloucester estate late today.

CORKRAN HELD IN $15,000 FOR HEARING

Charles E. Corkran, arrested yesterday charged with stealing $9,000 from the American Woods Corporation of Malone, N. Y., for which he was Boston representative, was today held in $15,000 for a hearing September 1 by Judge Bennett in the Municipal Court.

Corkran's peculations started, it is alleged, eight years ago, at the time he organized, with Scott G. Boyce of Malone, N. Y., the American Woods Corporation under the laws of the State of New York. This corporation was capitalized for $15,000 which was later increased.

This corporation, it is stated, is a thoroughly legitimate concern, Boyce being known to be wealthy, and having a business reputation for strict honesty. Soon after the corporation was started, Corkran, it is said, gained the confidence of Boyce to such an extent as to give him practically free rein in subsequent transactions.

Twenty corporations and companies have been organized by Corkran since the organization of the American Woods Corporation eight years ago, it is alleged, and a number of these were plain dummies used by him, it is said, for manipulation only.

Corkran has been well known in the Back Bay in Boston, where he has lived at the Hotel Oxford with his wife. His Summer home is at No. 28 New Ocean street, Lynn, near the Swampscott line.

It is expected that later developments will result in the arrest of others suspected of connection with Corkran in his alleged swindling operations.

Offenburg Is Bombarded by French Flier

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—Offenburg in Baden was bombarded by a French aviator last night and twelve non-combatants were wounded, it was officially announced today. The damage to property was insignificant.

The War Office in making the announcement was careful to point out that Offenburg is outside the zone of military operations. The city is nine miles southeast of Strassburg and thirty miles north of Freiburg.

It is on the railway running south from Karlsruhe.

Cholera Spreads in East Germany

CHARGE MURDER TO ROXBURY HUSBAND

A warrant charging Oscar Russ with wife murder was today granted to Sergeant Corcoran of the Roxbury Crossing station in the Roxbury District Court.

As the result of the autopsy performed by Associate Medical Examiner William H. Watters on the body of Mrs. Emily Russ, who was found with her throat cut in her parlor at No. 178 Centre street, Roxbury, on Monday, the police now charge the husband with the killing.

Dr. Watters reported that the condition of the body indicated that Mrs. Russ had been dead prior to 7 a. m. on Monday. Russ is alleged to have admitted to the police that he left home for work at 7 o'clock Monday and that his wife was alive at that hour. The police accepted this theory which has been shattered by subsequent disclosures.

Russ is twenty-seven. They had been married a little more than a year. They have an infant daughter. Russ is said to have been jealous of his wife and to have complained of the alleged attentions of several men.

Russ had been held on suspicion since Monday. As the result of new evidence, he was today hurried to police headquarters and photographed and measured. He was in the custody of Sergeant Corcoran and Special Officer Wallace. He was then taken to the Roxbury court, where the formal charge of murder was preferred. He was arraigned charged with murder, pleaded not guilty and was held without bail until September 8.

RIOTER APPEALS NINE MONTHS' SENTENCE

Michael Costa, forty-seven years old, of No. 33 Charles street, one of the men alleged to have taken part in the riot at the Commonwealth pier August 15, appeared before Judge Logan in the South Boston District Court today charged with assault and battery on Officer Peterson of Station 6, and was ordered to jail for nine months.

Costa produced several witnesses who testified that he was an innocent bystander and a victim of circumstances, but the testimony of Officers Peterson and Nash charged Costa with throwing several stones which struck Peterson.

Counsel for Costa pleaded with Judge Logan for leniency as the defendant had a family of four children.

Costa appealed and was held in $500 for the Grand Jury.

BERNSTORFF SEEKS TO SHOW WILSON GERMANY'S FRIENDSHIP

German government to prevent attacks on British merchantmen on which Americans were known to be passengers.

2.—It was not known that Americans were on board the Arabic, because the passenger list and the date of sailing were kept secret by the White Star Company.

4.—That express orders have been given by the German admiralty to submarine commanders that they must give adequate notice to all passenger ships before attacking them, and that if a merchant ship running from Arabic without warning its officers acted in direct violation of orders.

The Ambassador was clearly anxious over persistent reports that the administration contemplated an immediate severance of diplomatic relations if it were proved that a submarine sank the Arabic without warning its any way.

Ambassador von Bernstorff plans to remain at the Ritz-Carlton until Friday, when he expects to go to Cedarhurst for the week end. He will probably go to Washington on Monday to confer with Secretary of State Lansing unless differently advised in the meantime by the Imperial German government.

It was made plain that Count von Bernstorff will have no statement to make on the Arabic incident and German-American negotiations until further advices are received from Berlin.

If the United States government decides to await an official report from the German government on the sinking of the Arabic, the Ambassador will have nothing to say in the meantime.

The German government's message to Washington is interpreted by many as an expression of regret and an advance disavowal of intention to cause the death of more American citizens.

Dispatches from Washington show that American officials are inclined to admit that the attitude of Germany as indicated in the communication sent to the State Department by Count von Bernstorff, gives ground for the opinion that the Arabic case may be adjusted without a break in diplomatic relations.

U. S. EMBASSY DEPOSITIONS SAY ARABIC WAS TORPEDOED

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The American embassy has transmitted by cable to Washington the gist of seven depositions taken by Consul Washington at Liverpool, six of which were from Americans on board the Arabic and the seventh from Captain Finch of that steamer.

The last is regarded as particularly noteworthy, as it is unusual for the skipper of a ship to furnish an affidavit to a government other than his own.

All depose that the Arabic was pursuing a peaceful course and that she was not warned. All of them declare either that they saw the torpedo or heard shouts that a torpedo was coming; also that the Arabic made no attempt to escape or to ram the submarine.

Captain Finch especially emphasized the last point, saying, in the first place, that it would have been suicidal, and in the second place, as he did not see the submarine, he could not have attempt to ram her.

CARDINAL GIBBONS DEPLORES SAILING ON DANGER SHIPS

BALTIMORE, Aug. 25.—Cardinal Gibbons is pained and grieved over the possibility of the United States becoming involved in the European struggle.

"War is a terrible thing," he says, "and we should not lightly jump into the strife that is alarming the world to pieces.

"It means a terrible cost to sacrifice thousands of young men—the life and sinew of the nation, just because a few insist on taking a risk. For it is nothing but a foolish risk for Americans to take the date of travelling by ships that are in danger. Why should they court the danger?

"The sinking of the steamship Arabic precipitated the present crisis between the United States and Germany. This was an English vessel, and it is deplorable that Americans take the risk of traveling on ships that are subjects to such dangers."

BELIEF CARVER IS BRINGING REPORT OF PAGE ON ARABIC

By International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Clifford N. Carver, private secretary to Ambassador Page, London's representative in America, is believed to be carrying to Washington the official report of the United States embassy on the destruction of the Arabic.

The departure of the secretary led to the impression that Ambassador Page did not wish to entrust his entire report to the cable. Secretary Carver probably will reach Washington about September 2.

The London papers continue their bitter comments on the sinking of the Arabic, the Evening Standard saying:

"If the German Foreign Office follows the lead of the German wireless, as it must do, President Wilson will be in the position of the Lusitania that have followed each other in rapid procession ever since the original order in council against German trade was issued.

"It already is certain that the cotton interests of the South intends to demand relief when Congress meets. Even Senator Hoke Smith, their spokesman, it is admitted they will be able to make things intensely interesting for the administration should its efforts to obtain relief through diplomatic sources fail, as now seems certain.

While this situation is being handled through diplomatic channels, the federal reserve system is preparing to put millions into the south to finance the cotton crop, reducing to the minimum the necessity for shipments to foreign markets.

HINT DISAVOWAL IN CASE OF ARABIC

If the Arabic was intentionally sunk without warning, the commander of the submarine violated the Admiralty's order and his act will be disavowed.

According to reports that have reached here the commander of the Arabic admitted that he changed his course to approach another vessel, the Dunsley, that had been attacked by a submarine, but which was still afloat.

It is possible that the Arabic crossed the path of a torpedo launched at the Dunsley.—From statement of a high German official on the Arabic case.

COTTON STATES AROUSED BY BRITAIN

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25. — Cotton growers and shippers only declare that Great Britain has added insult to injury by her recent declaration of the "burden of proof" to the cotton shipper when a cargo is seized under the new contraband ruling.

Despite the claim of the United States that it has recognized and unalterable principle of international law that where contraband is seized, the burden of proof that it is intended for an enemy is on the nation making the capture, the British foreign office has decided that in so far as American cotton goods is concerned, the American shippers must shoulder this task.

As a result the new British note is being redrafted to meet this new development. When completed it will controvert stubbornly all of the contentions of Great Britain which hamper American trade.

Although officials are convinced that England will not back down, many declare that the groundwork will be laid for forcing the allies when the war ends to pay all damages sustained by American exporters as a result of the illegal acts that have followed each other in rapid procession ever since the original order in council against German trade was issued.

It already is certain that the cotton interests of the South intends to demand relief when Congress meets. Even Senator Hoke Smith, their spokesman, it is admitted they will be able to make things intensely interesting for the administration should its efforts to obtain relief through diplomatic sources fail, as now seems certain.

While this situation is being handled through diplomatic channels, the federal reserve system is preparing to put millions into the south to finance the cotton crop, reducing to the minimum the necessity for shipments to foreign markets.

DISAVOW PLAN FOR SEIZURE OF HAITI

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—A complete disavowal that the United States plans annexation either of the whole or part of Haiti wasm ade by Secretary of State Lansing today.

The Secretary declares this government had acted to save the Haitian people from foreign control of their rights and those of other nations. They have refused to support any government or to recognize anything but their own desires. People have been and are starving in the streets of the large cities because the authorities are afraid to bring foodstuffs from the country districts where they are going to waste.

"The convention that we have asked Haiti to agree to is designed purely and simply to protect the interest of all Haitians. It does not even ask the guaranteeing of an American naval base in Mole St. Nicholas.

"The convention, it must also be remembered, must be approved by the United States Senate before it can be made effective."

Secretary Lansing stated further that the principle contained in President Wilson in his Mobile speech, that the United States would not acquire by conquest any foreign territory, would rule in the dealings with Haiti.

FOR SUMMER CATARRH AND HAY FEVER

As there seems to be a regular epidemic of Catarrh and hay fever at the present time the following top prescription will undoubtedly be welcomed by many. Go to any good Druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar, stir until dissolved, take one tablespoonful 4 times a day. This will often bring instant relief from such distressing symptoms as clogged nostrils catarrhal discharges, head noises, dullness, watering of the eyes, sneezing, sore throat, etc. It is easy to prepare, costs little and seldom fails to relieve even the most chronic sufferer. Those who suffers from catarrh or hay fever should give it a trial.—Advertisement.

Czar to Retain Jewish Pale for Present, Report

Boston American and London Times Exclusive Cable Service.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 25.—The report that the Russian government has decided to abolish the Jewish pale is declared to be premature. As an enormous number of Galician Jews were compelled to move to the interior provinces, it has been necessary to suspend the domiciliary restrictions in the case.

Several influential members of the Council of Ministers, it is reported, declared that the condition that the further maintenance of domiciliary disabilities was unnecessary and would hamper many munition factories transferred from the Jewish pale into the interior.

Gives Own Blood to Save Victim of His Auto

The accident occurred yesterday on North Main street. Before he could be landed in the hospital Bedoras nearly bled to death.

During the night Bedoras was near death from weakness on account of lack of blood. The surgeons sent for Shapira and asked him to make good his promise to do everything he could for the boy. Shapira bared his right arm and one quart of his blood was transfused into Bedoras' veins. Tests was an immediate improvement. The physicians now say he will live Shapira will be all right in a day or two.

BRITAIN SEES CONSCRIPTION COMING

By International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Russian defeats in the eastern theatre of war have brought conscription nearer to the British Isles than it has been at any time since the war broke out. Although there has been a steady flow of recruits, Earl Kitchener, Secretary of War, is known to be dissatisfied. His cry for "more men and then more men" is not being answered in sufficient volume to suit him.

Continued successes for the Austro-German forces in the east and the instability of the Anglo-French allies, and the Italians to break the Teutonic lines in the west is causing pessimism in the press and in official circles, which cannot be disguised. Military experts confess that the situation in the eastern theatre is acute. Russia has more men than Germany, but they lack training and have insufficient arms and ammunition.

RUSSIA'S GREAT LOSSES.

In the artillery branch the Russians have suffered enormously through the loss of guns and on top of this it must be considered that Russia never was a match for Germany as regards cannon.

If Germany should end her offensive in the eastern theatre now, it would probably take Russia a year to make up for the reverses suffered in the last sixteen weeks. Germany is working desperately to establish a condition in the east that will allow the general staff at Berlin to transport a million or more men into the West. That is what is making conscription loom up so dangerously near.

Some predict that conscription will be an actual fact within the next two weeks.

CONSCRIPTION NEAR AT HAND

The Daily Express, in discussing the situation, says:

"It is no secret that Earl Kitchener will not hesitate to ask for, and obtain national service (conscription) the moment he feels in a position to make it workable. If the Secretary for War had asked for compulsory service a month or two months ago, or even six months ago, the proposal would have met with any serious opposition anywhere. Least of all would opposition have come from the Cabinet.

"Earl Kitchener probably made up his mind on the subject long ago, and he has no false sentiment regarding it. We believe Lord Kitchener is not enamored with the volunteer system. When the times comes for him to act effectively, we believe his vote will be heard in no uncertain terms. Meanwhile it would do no good to attempt to force the War Secretary's hand. He will not act until he finds the change can be made speedily, cleanly and most emphatically."

Queen Amelie Is Certain of Allied Victory

By International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—"To doubt for a single instant that we will be victorious or to contemplate the crumbling of our nation would be to defy cowardice but blasphemy," is former Queen Amelie of Portugal in a message to the women of France made public today.

The message follows:

"Women of France, we have no right to weep. It is our honor to enter silently pending the day when national victory will avenge all our sufferings. Our duty is to hide our woe and to see in our sorrows only the sacrifice will of God, who renders heroic every death in this war. It is not possible that France will not be beaten.

"It is not possible that right, sustained by courage, will not triumph over bravery even though it be backed by big guns. It is an honor to French women that by their silent grief they have paved the way to victory.

"Later, when normal life is resumed we can take the load of human woe and then only must we French women give way to tears."

Yes—there are other good ones besides fatima.

You think you've guessed it. But—?

RUSSIA'S GREAT LOSSES.

In the artillery branch the Russians have suffered enormously through the loss of guns and on top of this it must be considered that Russia never was a match for Germany as regards cannon.

If Germany should end her offensive in the eastern theatre now, it would probably take Russia a year to make up for the reverses suffered in the last sixteen weeks. Germany is working desperately to establish a condition in the east that will allow the general staff at Berlin to transport a million or more men into the West. That is what is making conscription loom up so dangerously near.

Some predict that conscription will be an actual fact within the next two weeks.

CONSCRIPTION NEAR AT HAND

The Daily Express, in discussing the situation, says:

"It is no secret that Earl Kitchener will not hesitate to ask for, and obtain national service (conscription) the moment he feels in a position to make it workable. If the Secretary for War had asked for compulsory service a month or two months ago, or even six months ago, the proposal would have met with any serious opposition anywhere. Least of all would opposition have come from the Cabinet.

"Earl Kitchener probably made up his mind on the subject long ago, and he has no false sentiment regarding it. We believe Lord Kitchener is not enamored with the volunteer system. When the times comes for him to act effectively, we believe his vote will be heard in no uncertain terms. Meanwhile it would do no good to attempt to force the War Secretary's hand. He will not act until he finds the change can be made speedily, cleanly and most emphatically."

BRITAIN SEES 25,000 TEUTONS LOST AT BREST LITOVSK

By International News Service.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 25.—Their successes at Brest Litovsk have lit cost the Austro-German forces 25,000 men, according to a dispatch to the Tribune from the Eastern front.

"As a result of a seven-day battle the Russians were compelled to evacuate their positions on the Northwest front of the fortress. The Germans have built a poison gas factory at Blain.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—Occupation of Kovel by Austro-German forces leaves only one railway line leading from Brest Litovsk in the hands of the Russians over which a retreat may be carried out and the supplies in the fortress transported to safety.

The Russians who retreated northward from Kovel are falling back upon the Pripet river, hotly pursued by Austro-German cavalry. (Kovel is a railroad centre of importance lying 63 miles southeast of Brest Litovsk. Two great rail systems pass through the city, one running from Odessa to Petrograd; the other leading from Warsaw to Kiev. There is a short line running southward to Vladimir Volinski, which town is also in possession of the Austro-German forces.)

With the capture of the Russian fort on a hill at Kospitow, southwest of Brest Litovsk, the Teutonic troops have forced the first breach in the outer works defending the great fortress.

For the time being attention is centred on the operations around Brest Litovsk to the exclusion of activities elsewhere in the eastern theatre—even those in the north in the Riga zone.

The single railway line from Brest Litovsk remaining in the hands of the Russians runs to Shabinska, where it branches off, one road leading into interior Russia by way of Minsk and Smolensk; the other traversing Pinsk and Rechitsa.

The campaign against Brest Litovsk is assuming the same characteristics as that against Warsaw. The Austro-German forces are fighting hard to draw a circle around Brest Litovsk and they are succeeding. It is confidently predicted that the next seventy-two hours will see the fortress evacuated by the Russians or taken by the Germans with their artillery and bayonets.

Swamps and numerous small rivers are hindering the transportation of the big guns of the Germans and Austrians, and miles of corduroy plank roads are now being built by the engineers for the movement of artillery and ammunition and supply trains.

FIERCE ARTILLERY DUELS MARK NIGHT ON FRENCH FRONT

By International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—Violent artillery duels were fought by the French and Germans at various points on the front last night. Conflicts were also waged with grenades and bombs, but the communique issued this afternoon reported no infantry engagements. A French aviator bombarded the station at Tarnaich-Dadon. No information as to the result was given in the communique, which follows:

"In Belgium all the sector to the north of Arras, the cannonade was rather sharp during the night. Some combats with grenades were waged around Souchez and Neuville.

"In Champagne and in the Argone only mine conflicts were reported.

"In the Vosges there were conflicts with grenades at Barrenkopf.

"One of our aeroplanes bombarded the station of Torrach, in the grand duchy of Baden, last night."

'Many Crippled in War,' Says Cushing

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Dr. Harry Cushing of Harvard University, who has just returned from field hospital duty in Europe, told the conference of the first aid societies here that the deaths in Europe are surprisingly few, although the numbers crippled for life are very plentiful.

TRIES SUICIDE AFTER FAMILY QUARREL

Lawrence Keenan, forty-nine, attempted to end his life by cutting his throat with a butcher's knife early today after he had, according to the police, beaten his wife and daughter, twenty, with the leg of a table and had set fire to his home at No. 405 Main street, Charlestown, by hurling a lighted lamp into a bed.

He is in a serious condition at the Haymarket Square Relief Station. A police officer from the Charlestown station is guarding his bedside and will place him under arrest charged with a murderous assault as soon as he recovers.

Mrs. Keenan, who is also at the hospital, is suffering from lacerated wounds of the scalp. The daughter was allowed to return to her home after a severe scalp wound had been dressed.

According to members of the family, Keenan, who is employed as a teamster, returned from work last night and acted in a perfectly normal condition. Early today, they say, he suddenly arose from his bed, seized a leg, which had been broken from a table, and rushed into the room where his wife Delia, forty-five, and daughter Mary were sleeping.

After arousing them, the family state, arguing for a few minutes, he raised several blows on the head of his wife. The daughter intervened and was also struck as she tried to protect her mother. He then grabbed a lamp, which was on a dresser, and hurled it into the bed.

An explosion followed and a mass of flames enveloped the bed. The fire alarm was sounded by a passerby, who saw the flames shoot from the window. Patrolmen Crocker, Fitzgerald and MacDonald of the City square station, hurried to the scene of the fire, which was soon extinguished.

The policemen met the wife. Blood was pouring from the wounds on her head. The daughter was also bleeding. Keenan was not to be seen. The daughter stated that he rushed from the room as soon as he threw the lamp.

A search of the house was started and the officers found Keenan in the cellar. His throat was jaggedly cut and a large butcher knife lay at his side.

Elm Hill Council on Moonlight Sail

Members of Elm Hill Council, K. of C., and their friends went on the council's moonlight sail last evening. The General Lincoln left Otis Wharf at 7:45, stopping at Nahant and the Graves Light. The sail lasted three hours, during which there was dancing and singing.

MISS ROSE UNOLD, who was drowned in a river at Essex and for whose parents a search is now being made.

Hunt Parents of Girl Drowned in River at Essex

Efforts are being made today to locate the parents of Miss Rose Unold, eighteen, who was drowned at Essex while in bathing near Corporation wharf, in the Essex River.

Miss Unold was employed by the family of Ralph H. Crockett of Lewiston, Me., who are stopping in Essex for the Summer with Mrs. Rufus Choate, mother of Mrs. Crockett.

She had been employed in the family as nurse girl for about a year. She is thought to have an aunt in Red Bank, N. J., a brother in Turner, Me., and a sister in Lowell.

Beach Ball Play Barred at Nahant

Metropolitan Park policemen spent a busy day at Nahant Beach jotting down the names and addresses of bathers tossing tennis balls around. Sergeant Breivogel issued the order after complaint was made that a woman had been struck.

FOSS OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN ON THE CAPE

Former Governor Foss today opened his campaign on the prohibition issue by declaring: "The political life of Curbing and McCall seems to be just one clambake after another, and their political ambition seems to be to rival by their silence on this great issue the cumbness of the clams themselves".

The former Governor was speaking at the foot of the Pilgrim Monument at Provincetown on "The Economic Value of a Moral Idea." And he said in part:

"There are those who would have it believed that my aim is purely selfish, that my object is merely the satisfaction of a whim in entering this fight. As a matter of fact, I am as free from sordid motives as was that little band which landed on these shores that day in December almost 300 years ago.

"There are those who pretend to believe that I am only toying with the moral issue of national prohibition. But my purpose is firm to impose upon the Republican party in Massachusetts in this pivotal election as its paramount issue the advocacy of the principle of nation-wide prohibition of the traffic in alcoholic liquors.

CAMPAIGN FOR PRINCIPLE.

"I am not blind to the fact that in working out my purpose as a candidate I have a great obstacle to overcome. It will undoubtedly be charged that I am the issue and that I care more for my own success than for that of prohibition. I foresaw this obstacle and tried to avoid it. I attempted to persuade Mr. Bird to become a candidate and I tried to induce Mr. McCall to declare for prohibition.

"But when Senator United States Senator, Mr. Weeks, having completed his journey across the United States as the self-appointed favorite son of Massachusetts, ordered the Republican party of Massachusetts to declare against national prohibition, I saw clearly that the Republican party in Massachusetts needs me more than I need it.

"Up to the time Senator Weeks spoke for the Republican party in advance of the primary, I had no exact knowledge of the position of the machine on the issue of national prohibition.

LIKE BANQUO'S GHOST.

"The prohibition issue is a new issue that has appeared, like a Banquo's ghost at the political feast, which no number of Macbeths can down. As Lincoln, as Seddon and as every broad-gauge, red-blooded American man of average moral purpose and intelligence says, the liquor evil in the United States must be put down, once and for all, never to rise again.

"I foresee that when the votes are counted in November upon this great issue, Massachusetts will have elected a republican government in actual truth, a government by the people, of the people and for the people."

Friends Banquet an American Winner

Joseph F. Goode, swimming instructor at the L street bathhouse, South Boston, was tendered a banquet at the Quincy House by 300 of his friends.

Mr. Goode received the highest number of votes for men in the recent California tour contest of the AMERICAN and the banquet was in the nature of a reception to him on his return from the Exposition. He was presented a diamond pin. Charles Cox, former superintendent of the bathhouse, was toastmaster and Clement A. Norton, who was "campaign manager" for Mr. Goode in the contest, was guest of honor. Among the speakers were Congressman Phelan, City Collector Curley, Election Commissioner Selberlich, Court Officer Meagher and John Mahoney.

ROOSEVELT PUTS HIS "O K" ON PLATTSBURG

By International News Service.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 25—"Bully idea! A mighty bully idea!"

With these words former President Theodore Roosevelt today gave his approval to the United States military instruction camp, where prominent business men and others are learning the science of war. Colonel Roosevelt, accompanied by Aurelio Heiro, Peruvian Minister for Cuba, arrived at 7:18 o'clock to spend the day at camp and to address the members tonight.

When the colonel arrived and saw the long lines of tents, the parade grounds and the khaki clad troopers and infantrymen with rifles and service pistols, his eyes snapped and his whole being exuded enthusiasm.

The colonel was met by Major-General Leonard Wood, Captain Halstead Dorey, camp commander, and Captain Gordon Johnson. He was in semi-military dress, wearing an olive drab riding suit, soft shirt, felt hat and gaiters.

When the colonel saw the lines of trenches, built after the method of the Germans, with front and rear concealments, communicating lines of entrenchments and barbed wire entanglements in the distance his enthusiasm rose still higher and it was not long before he was in the earthworks inspecting them with a critical eye.

ASK FOR MORE TROOPS ON BORDER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—United States military authorities in Texas have appealed to Washington to send more troops to the Brownsville region, reporting that the troops now on the border are insufficient to deal with the situation caused by the continued raids of armed Mexicans.

A band of Mexicans has crossed the Rio Grande at Ranchers and another at Laisle. At last reports they had effected a junction and were proceeding in the direction of Falfurrias. American ranchers have been called to prevent any attack on that town.

A detachment of the Twelfth Cavalry under Major Carter is pursuing the Mexicans.

Federal and Texas authorities today began an investigation of the murder of Mall Wormser, an American cattleman, whose body was found last night on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande. Wormser disappeared after he had crossed the border on his way to see the Villa forces about a cattle deal. The investigation aims to ascertain whether Wormser was killed by Mexican bandits or by Villa soldiers. His friends say that his murder may prove a second Benton case.

Villa officials will be asked to grant permission for an examination of the body, which was hurriedly buried in the sand at the edge of the Rio Grande.

RISE OF THE WATER NYMPH IN "THE DANCE OF THE SEA"

The Baroness Irmgarde von Rottenthal, who has become famous for her descriptive dancing, is shown here in one of her most alluring numbers. The instinct for the dance was born in her. Her environment in the beautiful Croatian hills flamed the natural spark of genius.

The dance in modified forms has been performed at most exclusive gatherings, the costumes and setting for one of which cost more than a million dollars. In America the Baroness has danced in innumerable society gatherings, fetes and charity affairs, her skill meeting enthusiastic reception.

ENVOY DUMBA'S BAGS RIFLED AT LENOX

LENOX, Aug. 25.—The trunks and bags of Dr. Constantin Theodore Dumba, Austrian Ambassador to the United States, were rifled at the Lenox railroad station during the night and letters and documents scattered all over the floor.

Ambassador Dumba admitted today that he thought the burglary of the Lenox and Lenoxdale stations was inspired by persons who sought secret Austrian papers. He added that imperial documents of importance were in a travelling bag which he carried in the automobile in which he and Baron G. Aggriod Hedry returned to Lenox from the White Mountains yesterday. These papers, he stated, were too valuable to trust to his general baggage.

The fact that one of the bags of the Austrian Ambassador, among his baggage at the Lenox station containing $5,000 worth of jewelry belonging to himself and wife, had been pried open like the other bags and trunks, but that none of the valuable contents was stolen, convinces the local police that the thieves sought papers and nothing else.

The trunks also contained clothing and personal effects of great value, which the thief or thieves disregarded. A hasty inventory showed nothing of value to be missing. The baggage of Baron Hedry was also rifled. Baron Hedry is counsel for the Austrian embassy.

Another feature that made the police feel that the plot was to get government papers was the fact that the Lenoxdale station was broken into and $1 in pennies stolen from the Adams Express Company and $1 in pennies from the telegraph company. It is the opinion of the authorities that the Lenoxdale station "break" was a blind. Failure to steal any of the jewelry in the bag that was opened in the Lenox station baffles the police.

Huntington Wilson Joins Reno Colony

RENO, Nev., Aug. 25.—Huntington Wilson, Assistant Secretary of State under Philander C. Knox, and Third Assistant Secretary under Elihu Root, has established a residence here. He refused to discuss reports that he will sue for divorce in about one month when he will have been here six months.

Mr. Wilson denies himself to all interviewers and is seen only in the company of a few prominent Easterners here, on account of marital difficulties.

Weston's Chief Declares War on Auto 'Spooners'

Chief of Police Patrick J. McCauliffe today placed a ban on "spooning" in Weston. His edict is aimed chiefly at motor couples. Here's McCauliffe's warning:

"If spooners who flock to Weston in automobiles don't quit or go somewhere else, I'll hale them into court. I was surprised to note how many machines were hauled up for hours last Sunday night in Weston and Wellesley streets, while the couples made love. It looked like opera night in Boston. It's got to stop. It doesn't look right and besides so many machines block the highway and make night travel unsafe in Weston for those who are not disciples of Cupid."

Second Hotel Fire at Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 25.—Another big beach front fire, the second within a few days, was threatened this morning when fire broke out in the Hotel Westmont, in the centre of the exclusive residential district, at Rhode Island and Oriental avenues.

YOUNG FISHER'S WEDDING A SURPRISE

Former Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher is reconciled to the surprise wedding of his son, Walter Taylor Fisher, who was to enter Harvard Law School this Fall, to Miss Katherine Dunmer, a graduate of Radcliffe, according to a dispatch from Chicago today. The former Secretary and his wife had hoped their son would postpone his marriage until he had completed the Harvard law course.

The wedding took place last week at Portland, Ore., while young Fisher was traveling with his bride's family. His mother at the time said he had agreed to defer his marriage until he had finished at Harvard. Miss Dunmer, whose home is in Chicago, is well known in Boston and not only led her class, but was prominent in social activities at Radcliffe.

"I think the boy acted foolishly to be married now," said the former Secretary at his Chicago home. "They will probably be received with open arms, though they have not given us a chance yet."

State Shoot Is Won by Militiamen from New Bedford

The Fourth Company of New Bedford won the State trophy at the annual competition of the coast artillery corps held on the Bay State range at Wakefield. As in all the State competitions the companies were divided into two divisions, shooting over the 500, 600 and 600 yards slow fire, and 200 and 300 yards rapid fire.

At the close of the competition the prize winners were: First division, first prize, Fourth Company, New Bedford, score 1,439; second prize, First Company, Boston, score 1,412; third prize Twelfth Company, Fall River, score 1,321.

The Seventh Company, Boston, won the State trophy in the second division, score 1,169. The interesting point in the team shooting was the victory of the New Bedford Company, which has labored under the disadvantage of having been without a suitable range.

The individual prize winners were Sergeant Francis, Fourth Company, score 165; Sergeant Whittle, Twelfth Company, 156; Private Tidd, First Company, 155; Mechanic Chaple, Fourth Company, 153; Sergeant Masons, First Company, 152. The improvement prize went to the Seventh Company.

Start Sweeping Inquiry of Death of Pro-German Pastor

By International News Service.

GARY, Ind., Aug. 25.—A sweeping investigation was started today into the death of Rev. Edmund Kayser, pastor of the St. James Evangelical Lutheran Church, who was found mysteriously slain near his home last night. Antagonism among Slavic steel workers against the pastor for his pro-German utterances is believed by the police to have been responsible for the crime.

A month ago Rev. Mr. Kayser appealed to the police for permission to carry a revolver. His request was denied and his congregation formed an escort for him from his home to the church.

The pastor was alone in his home when attacked.

No blood stains were found in the house, but the furniture was overturned showing that a struggle had taken place. Window shades had been torn down and the cords used in an attempt to bind the minister.

Two curtain cords were about his neck and one cord was around his right wrist when his body was found thirty feet from the house. Two bullet wounds one through the left shoulder and the other through the neck which severed an artery were found by the coroner.

She was arrested yesterday in the subway. The gallery at Pemberton Square has a picture of her taken in 1879.

The steamer brought a large cargo of bananas cut from the trees felled by the hurricane.

INFLAMED ECZEMA ON LIPS AND CHIN

Small Red Pimples Came. Intolerable Itching and Smarting.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"I was taken with eczema one day after never having any trouble before. My lips and chin were affected and the surface of the skin around my mouth and chin presented at first an inflamed appearance. Then small red pimples came which gave forth a watery fluid and dried leaving the skin scaly. There was an intolerable itching and smarting and I irritated the skin by scratching until it was broken, and my face was disfigured.

I read of a case of eczema healed by the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I decided to try them. In a month's time my skin was as fair as a baby's. I was entirely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Allen F. Brown, 21 South Pond St., Newburyport, Mass., April 12, 1915.

Lynn Woman Risks Her Life to Rescue Baby from Blaze

Pushing her way through smoke-filled rooms in a neighbor's house, Mrs. Viola Small of No. 23 Camden street, Lynn, rescued a three-months-old baby girl from a burning bedroom at the risk of her own life.

The child, with two other older children, was left alone in the house at No. 23 Camden street, Lynn, by the parents. The older children played with matches and set the house ablaze.

Frightened when the fire began to spread, they rushed out into the street, leaving the baby behind.

COULD NOT KEEP FOOD IN STOMACH

J. Lavoie of No. 236 Lexington St., Boston, Was in a Very Serious State.

In an interview yesterday, the Plant Juice Man said: "If people would only realize that 90 per cent. of the ills that human flesh is heir to are directly traceable to that much-abused organ, the stomach, and when the digestive organs are not properly performing the work which nature has assigned them, then nutrition which is absolutely essential to the recovery of other diseased parts will be lacking, and there can be no permanent relief. It usually begins with weakness, from a lack of vital activity in the secretory glands of the stomach, from a want of sufficient gastric juice; hence a remedy that will arouse these parts, stimulate them to action and infuse them with vitality, will remove the cause, and the dreadful symptoms which the stomach, kidney and liver trouble will vanish."

Plant Juice stimulates the secretory glands, attacks and destroys all poisons in the blood, corrects diseased conditions of the stomach, liver and kidneys and restores them to normal condition. This contention is verified daily by scores of local people in signed statements. Recently the testimonial was received from Mr. J. Lavoie, who resides at No. 236 Lexington street, and is a well-known travelling man of this city. He said:

"For years I suffered from stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia. The doctor advised me to go to the hospital, where I was put under an X-Ray acute indigestion. I had severe headaches, no appetite and was in a miserable condition as I could not keep any food in my stomach at all. I heard about Plant Juice and have been taking it for about two weeks and now can eat any kind of food, have no more aches or pains and am simply feeling fine. I am recommending Plant Juice to everyone, for it has cured me. I consider it the best money I have ever spent."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Co.'s Store, corner Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

FINDS KODAK COMPANY A MONOPOLY

BUFFALO, Aug. 25.—The Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester is a monopoly in restraint of trade, in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and must present a plan "for the abrogation of the illegal monopoly" in November, according to a decision handed down by Judge Hazel in the United States District Court.

Judge Hazel in his opinion states that, while it appears that no irremediable hardship will result from a separation of the present business into two or more separate companies, it is not at this time intended to indicate either a dissolution, division or reorganization.

The opinion reviews in detail the acquisition of the control of raw paper and of competing companies, and states that it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that these acts are for the purpose of suppressing competition and in the furtherance of an intention to form a monopoly.

FILM CONTRACTS.

In substantiation of this it is pointed out that in nearly every instance the conveyances contained restricted covenants prohibiting the officers of the acquired concerns from re-entering the business from periods ranging from five to twenty-five years, thus serving, as said in the tobacco case, "as perpetual barriers to the entry of others."

Judge Hazel dismissed the government's claim that contracts for the manufacture of motion picture film entered into between the defendants and the Motion Picture Patents Company were violations of the statute.

The Court quoted the great gains and profits of the company for the year 1912, which amounted to $15,-633,551.21 or about 171 per cent. on total sales of $24,763,107.65, as showing the large disproportion between the cost of manufacture and the price paid by the consumer.

UNLIKE OTHER CASES.

In conclusion, Judge Hazel states that there is a marked dissimilarity between the acts discussed in the case and those disclosed in the United Shoe Machinery and Keystone Watch cases, which were decided in favor of the defendants to the effect that no monopoly was created.

In this connection the opinion stated that there was no limit in this country to which a business may grow and that acquisition of property in this case standing alone would not be deemed an illegal monopoly. But when the acquisitions are accompanied by an intent to monopolize and restrain interstate trade by an arbitrary use of the power resulting from the large business to intimidate a weaker competitor, then they no doubt come within the meaning of the statute.

Marguerite Clark and Sam Bernard in Films at Park

Theatregoers who appreciate a high-class photoplay will be sure to be much pleased with the bill this week at the Park Theatre. A splendid three-hour Paramount Pictures program is being offered.

It features the two latest Paramount Pictures, in which are presented the dainty and bewitchingly clever Marguerite Clark, as the star in one, and the irresistibly funny comedian, Sam Bernard, in the other.

Marguerite Clark appears in the Famous Players Film Company production, "Helene of the North," and her admirers are afforded an unusual treat in her latest screen vehicle. As Helene, Marguerite Clark appears as sweet and as handsome as ever and much more effective.

Sam Bernard, who is world-famous as one of the greatest character comedians, takes advantage of the wider opportunities of the photoplay over the stage and appears even more of a hit as a funmaker in "Pood Schmaltz."

These two photoplay headliners are accompanied by a number of other features which give excellent variety to the bill. These include Charles Frank's Paramount Concert Orchestra, Grace Palmer, soprano soloist; the Park Topical Review and Pathe News, a new Charlie Chaplin comedy and the Paramount South American Travel series.

'Bought for Song' Causes Libel Suit

KOKOMO, Ind., Aug. 25.—Not long ago Julius and Charles Lyons, local clothing dealers, bought a stock of goods from Ike Myers, a competitor, whose business had not been profitable for some time, and put the goods on sale, advertising that they had bought the stock "for a song." Myers has brought suit for libel, demanding $10,000. He says the words "bought for a song" were wickedly, maliciously and libelously contrived to injure him in his good name and reputation as a merchant and business man.

We Want to Prove at Our Own Expense That It Is No Longer Necessary to Be Thin, Scrawny, and Undeveloped

"Gee! Look at that pair of skinny scarecrows! Why don't they try Sargol?"

This is a serious matter for every thin man or woman. We positively guarantee to increase your weight in your own satisfaction or no pay. Think this over, then send it today. At our own risk, we offer to put 10, 15, 20 pounds of good, solid flesh on your bones, to fill out hollows in cheeks, neck or bust, to get rid of that "gaunt," "lonesome" look. Nothing to do but write us a letter or two requesting our "guarantee" and mention from business or any reasons you may have for not feeling fine. Sargol will do the rest.

We particularly wish to hear from the scrawny thin, those who know the humiliation and embarrassment which only skinny people have to endure. We want to send a free 10-cent package to the people who are "bean poles," "toothpicks," "living skeletons," "rubber necks," "string beans," "scarecrows," no matter how exceedingly dressed, to the skinny men who fail to gain solid flesh and reasonable weight on account of their inability to digest food, whether you have been thin from birth, or whether you have lost flesh through sickness, how many flesh builders you have experimented with. We take the risk and assume it cheerfully. If we cannot put pounds and pounds of healthy flesh on your frame we don't want your money.

The new treatment is used to increase the red corpuscles in the blood, strengthen the nerves and put the digestive tract in perfect condition, so that the food you eat is turned into good, solid healthy flesh instead of passing through the system undigested and unassimilated. It is a thoroughly scientific principle, this Sargol, for building up the thin, weak and debilitated without any nauseous dosing. In many conditions it is better than to throw off and certainly is much pleasanter to take.

Send today for the 10-cent box today. Commence to put your prompt acceptance of this offer to the test. Show us your faith and willingness to gain in weight. The 10-cent package will convince you beyond a shadow of a doubt as to results. We send it that you may see its simple, harmless nature, how easy it is to take, how you may gain flesh privately without knowledge of friends or family.

We could not publish this offer if we were not prepared to live up to it. If it only the astounding results of our new kind of treatment that make such an offer and such a guarantee possible on our part. Cut out the coupon today and mail it, or come to The Sargol Company, 45-H Herald Building, Binghamton, N. Y., and please, endose 10c with coupon letter to help pay distribution expenses. Music Teachers Save Parents $75 to $200 On New Pianos At My Big Midsummer PIANO SALE

I DO NOT pay music teachers commissions--but a great many honest, conscientious, capable music teachers recommend to pupils and parents the buying of a piano from J. P. Collins. The $50, $75 or $100 paid by other piano houses to teachers as a commission on the sale of their piano to the pupil comes out of the parent and is not fair. Teachers who recommend the father or mother to trade with J. P. Collins and save money are acting squarely, and as J. P. Collins carries the greatest stock of new upright pianos in Boston teachers can honestly recommend the best without being prejudiced for the sake of commissions.

to right and left. There were six of the destroyers, of the 1910 class.

The Terry led the line. Behind her in order came the Monaghan, Perkins, Roe, Sterrett and Walke. In perfect alignment, they shot past the Wyoming, swung around and came to a stop to the northward.

After the destroyers came the leviathans. They came more leisurely, at a 15-knot speed, moving majestically in line, answering their helms with the quiet precision of tiny power boats, for all their bulk.

The Arkansas, Florida and Virginia, flagships of their respective divisions, saluted the Wyoming as they passed. The salute was of nineteen guns, honoring Secretary of the Navy Daniels. The Secretary's flag fluttered at the fore peak of the Wyoming in token of his presence on board.

The battleships, including the Wyoming, and representing one of the most powerful squadrons ever brought together off the New England coast, were:

Superdreadnought Texas, ten 14-inch guns.

Dreadnought Wyoming (flagship), twelve 12-inch guns.

Dreadnought Arkansas, twelve 12-inch guns.

Dreadnought Utah, ten 12-inch guns.

Dreadnought Florida, ten 12-inch guns.

Dreadnought South Carolina, eight 12-inch guns.

Pre-dreadnought Minnesota, four 12-inch guns.

Pre-dreadnought Virginia, four 12-inch guns.

Pre-dreadnought New Jersey, four 12-inch guns.

Pre-dreadnought Georgia, four 12-inch guns.

Pre-dreadnought Rhode Island, four 12-inch guns.

BATTLESHIPS STEAM BY.

The battleships and the cruiser Birmingham steamed past, turned southeast, and came to a stop southward of the destroyers. Then the manoeuvres began.

The destroyers were the first to do their part. Stoking up their fires, they threw up a "smoke screen" as dense and black as practically to hide their scurrying shapes; then made an attack upon the battleships, while the guests on the Wyoming looked on, breathless.

The battleships, under command of their division leaders, manoeuvred into position and fought off the attack.

After this manoeuvre the battleships and destroyers combined in an attack upon the Wyoming, striving to come at her from the rear and destroy her. The guests aboard the Razebix had all the thrills that go with a real sea battle—themselves in the part of innocent non-combatants upon the attacked ship.

When this attack ended—and no decision was rendered as to whether or not the Wyoming was sunk—the bulk of the fleet stood out to sea and took positions, while the Wyoming started for Gloucester.

She made for Freshwater Cove, and there her passengers were put ashore and the review of the fleet was over.

RECEPTION TO GOVERNORS GAY SIGHT

Formal greetings by the people of Massachusetts were extended to the governors attending the conference at the reception in the Hall of Flags in the State House, in a manner that reflected credit and made the brilliant function one of the most successful ever held at the State capitol.

Gay colored uniforms, beautiful gowns, the flash of swords and the glitter of gold braid, presented a picture seldom seen in this country. Over it all extended an atmosphere of informality, in spite of the dress uniforms—an atmosphere refined and of good taste, even while informal.

The imposing spectacle commenced at the very steps of the State House. As the automobiles drew up in front of the long terraces of steps, flanked with rows of colored lights, military aids met the guests and escorted them in the slow-moving line to the doors of the capitol.

LIGHTS FLANK THE STEPS.

Just inside the door of the reception hall, stood Governor David I. Walsh—our Governor. At his side was the Hon. Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy. The line of visiting Governors stretched clear across the Hall of Flags.

Each guest was escorted along the line by a military aid who introduced each in turn to the distinguished guests. It was here that the informality that made the function so successful became evident. At each introduction came an exchange of greetings. And again and again this exchange flashed into sallies of wit that sent a ripple of appreciation along the line, and passed the guest along with a glow of delight at the personal, intimate touch these exchanges would otherwise be a tiring formality.

A BRILLIANT SPECTACLE.

The Governors wore their "uniforms," of course, the conventional evening dress. But the the sombre black only served to emphasize by contrast the gay colors of other uniforms. And directly behind each Governor stood one of these gayly colored uniforms—with the finest and best of our militia officers inside the uniform—the temporary aides.

The Governors' wives were not in the receiving line.

Just outside the Hall of Flags the Ninth Regiment Band played, and just outside the room where the collation was served the band of the First Corps Cadets played. After the reception Governor Walsh and his special guests retired to his offices to rest and talk it all over.

A total of 2,000 invitations had been sent out to the leading town, city and State officials in the Commonwealth. No one seemed to find any of the former Governors of Massachusetts present, and Mayor Curley of Boston failed to appear.

Although evening dress was of course the rule, many wore informal clothes—making the gathering a real assembly of "plain people" of "real people."

IN THE RECEIVING LINE.

Following are the names of the visiting guests who stood in line at the reception: Governor G. W. P. Hunt, Arizona; Governor G. A. Carlson, Colorado; ex-Governor Alva Adams, Colorado; ex-Governor Elias M. Ammons, Colorado; Governor M. H. Holcomb, Connecticut; ex-Governor Albert W. Gilchrist, Florida; Hon. Stuart and ex-Governor William Hodges Mann, Virginia; Governor Ernest Lister, Washington; Governor Francis E. McGovern, Wisconsin; ex-Governor Joseph M. Carey, Wyoming.

United States Senator Lodge attracted more general attention than any other visitor not in the receiving line. Lieutenant Governor Cushing arrived in company with Congressman Augustus P. Gardner, Congressman James A. Gallivan, ex-Congressman Kelliher, Hon. Alexander McGregor, Sheriff Quinn ,Colonel Sidney O. Bigney, Colonel Everett H. Benton and E. Mark Sullivan were observed in the ever-shifting crowd.

From the battleship Wyoming were Captain T. A. Snowden and Lieutenant Commander Miller, Captain Rush, commandant at the Navy Yard, was also there.

General Leroy F. Sweetser had charge of the reception and the faultless manner in which everything went off did him great credit. Major Charles T. Cahill was chief of aids. His assistants were:

GOVERNORS EXPRESS CONFIDENCE IN PRESIDENT WILSON

Resolutions expressing confidence in President Wilson in the international crisis were adopted by the Governors' Conference by a rising vote, which was unanimous, as follows:

The Governors of the several Commonwealths of the Nation, in conference assembled in Boston, desires to tender to you an expression of their confidence and support in this hour of international concern; and to assure you of their readiness to follow your leadership in all matters which you may deem best to promote the honor and maintain the peace and welfare of the Nation and the whole people.

The resolutions were introduced by Governor Walsh, who moved their acceptance and that they be sent by telegram to the President at Washington. In seconding the motion for adoption, Governor Richard I. Manning of South Carolina said the resolutions embodied a principle which was beyond any partisan viewpoint. The motion was also seconded by Governor Frank M. Byrne of South Dakota.

GOV. HAMMOND URGES EFFICIENCY WHITMAN ASKS UNIFORM LAWS

The second day of the Governors' Conference began with a regular session at the State house, over which Governor Frank M. Byrne of South Dakota presided.

The speakers were Governor Winfield S. Hammond of Minnesota, and Governor Charles S. Whitman of New York.

Governor Hammond's topic was "Economy and Efficiency in the State." He said in part:

"The old-fashioned system of government has resulted in giving the State not one governor but a number of governors, one of whom is elected, the others appointed by various boards and commissions.

"The governor of the State bears about the same relationship to many of these boards as he bears to the courts, and it is fundamental that the executive and judicial departments shall be independent of each other.

"If a judge resigns the governor may appoint his successor, so if one of those members should resign the governor should appoint his successor; but he has about as much to do with the policies and the work of these boards as he has with the hearing and determination of cases of law.

"There is little or no co-ordination between these various bodies. We have a case in Minnesota where the keeper of a hotel addressed the Governor of the State, informing him that one State board had directed him to tear down his buildings because of danger of fire while another board had directed the installation in the building of new stairways or fire-escapes or some other improvement to make it more suitable for a hotel.

APPEALED TO GOVERNOR.

"Perplexed, he asked the chief executive which order he should obey first.

"Inspectors, examiners, investigators and employes of these various governing bodies, busy in the performance of their duties, are traveling over the State, sometimes several of them descending at the same time upon a little hamlet of two or three hundred inhabitants, where all examinations and investigations for all of the State departments could be done by an able-bodied man in half a day."

Governor Whitman spoke on the subject of "Conservation." He recommended that a census be taken of game as well as of all the resources of a State, and that all States cooperate in conserving the game, forests, waters, natural wealth which is distributed throughout large districts of the United States.

The Governor of New York drew attention to the fact that it was on this question of conservation that the first Governor's conference was called, and he asked that States unite in a common policy toward natural resources which are to be found in all or in many States alike. He said:

"I condemn wholesale slashing of forests, carelessness of hunters and Sunmerrampers in respect to fires, ruthless slaughter of birds and fish, uncontrolled use of water power by private companies and divergent laws, which are a menace to outside, or neighboring States.

Uniformity Essential.

"Uniformity in our State laws is essential to proper conservation of our natural resources.

"Especially is this true in regard to forests and water supply. The flood convention held in Pittsburgh in 1908 met with no intention of including any other State than Pennsylvania in its discussions, but soon found neighboring States involved, and eventually the subject was found to involve almost every State in the Union.

"As early as 1798 fire laws were made by the United States government for the protection of the forests.

"Today as in past uniform laws among the States are essential for protection of the forests. In New York and in Massachusetts there are laws against fire balloons, but only recently 65 fire balloons were released from a neighboring State and most of them fell outside the borders of that State. I know that one fell in Massachusetts after sailing over many waste places.

"If we are not to have droughts the destructions of forests by private individuals should be stopped or at least controlled. In the Catskill Mountains there are 3,359,684 acres of forest, but only 1,324,716 belongs to the State. Private owners can do almost what they please with forests upon which the State depends."

While the Governors were in session at the State House, the ladies of their party were shopping in down-town Boston, under guidance of their hosts and hostesses here.

At noon they rendezvoused at the State House, and as guests of the Chamber of Commerce were whisked to the navy yard to board the Wyoming and review the fleet.

At 4 in the afternoon the Wyoming was scheduled to land them at Gloucester. Although the Italian "Festa" planned for their entertainment on the John Hays Hammond estate had been postponed until tomorrow on account of the condition of the grounds, the Governors and their party were to be received and entertained by Mrs. Hammond.

The further program for the day included an automobile trip along the North Shore to Marblehead, a luncheon given by the Chamber of Commerce at the Eastern Yacht Club, and fireworks over the water there.

ELEVATED PLANS EXTRA CAR SERVICE FOR BIG PARADE

In order to provide for the large numbers who will view the parade tomorrow, the Elevated will increase the service on all lines.

From 12:30 six-car elevated trains will be operated on the Elevated structure and through the Washington street tunnel every two minutes. Three-car trains will be run in the Cambridge subway in each direction every two minutes. Greatly increased service will also be operated in the Tremont street subway and Boylston street subway to the East Boston tunnel.

In a statement the company asks the co-operation of the public in meeting the situation, and especially requests that the facilities provided in the subways and on the elevated lines be used as expensively as possible.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE CONFERENCE OF GOVERNORS

William Hodges Mann, former Governor of Virginia, suh, admits himself to be the oldest in attendance. He is seventy-two. A Democrat? Yes. "What do you expect, suh, coming from Virginia, suh?"

* * *

He was Governor in 1911. He wears a white, silken, glossy beard and bows low, in courtly manner.

* * *

He believes in the initiative, for the Governor. If a Governor's inagural recommendations are turned down he would give the Governor the right to submit them to the people.

* * *

In Massachusetts it isn't allowed Governor Walsh knows the difficulty of dealing with a partisan Legislature.

* * *

Our own Governor, at forty-two, is the youngest. Ex-Governor McGovern of Wisconsin may take issue with this, but they say he has turned forty-four. On good looks, there is little to choose between them.

* * *

Albert W. Gilchrist, an "ex" of Florida, is the tallest. He is six feet four. But at that, he'll have to look up to our Lieutenant-Governor.

* * *

Gilchrist is a candidate for the United States Senate "down home." His campaign material—he brought it with him—says he is "unmarried, but hopeful."

* * *

His weight, the circular says, is one-tenth of a long ton. But—and this is a mere observation—he is a skeleton compared to Governor Hunt of Arizona.

* * *

Felker of New Hampshire curls the longest mustache. It nestles on his lip and makes a generally southern direction. He also boasts the greatest shock of hair.

* * *

Hunt, despite his weight, has every appearance of being comfortable. He wears a crash suit. He also disports an Elk's tooth and they call him "Bill."

* * *

From the farthest West came Ernest Lister, Governor of Washington. Our eastern friend yesterday was forlorn—Governor Haines of Maine.

Governor Curtis is due today.

* * *

They are here from nine suffrage States. They are Governors Hunt of Arizona, Alexander of Idaho, Dunne of Illinois, Capper of Kansas, Spry of Utah, Lister of Washington, Carey of Wyoming, Stewart of Montana and former-Governors Ammons and Adams of Colorado.

* * *

Suffragists are going to give the suffrage Governors a luncheon Friday in the Red Room at the Bellevue. Mrs. Teresa A. Crowley, Mrs. Gertrude H. Leonard and Mrs. Evelyn Coe obtained the promises from the distinguished visitors.

* * *

In addition to his voluminous campaign material, Gilchrist of Florida, is passing out Netherland half-pennies.

* * *

Walsh, Hammond, Gilchrist and Williams are the bachelor Governors. Governor Dunne has the largest family, eight children.

* * *

Ammons and Adams of Colorado are fast friends. The former was Governor during the big strikes and refused Federal assistance.

* * *

Adams fears the country is reverting to the doctrines of Alexander Hamilton and getting away from those of Thomas Jefferson. He is against anything that will take away powers from the people.

* * *

Governor Williams of Oklahoma is one of the best orators as well as most vigorous fighters. He believes in a four-year term for Governor. He would not allow any Governor in office to run for United States Senator or any other office until he had been out of office six months. He would remove all Governors from temptation.

* * *

Governor Spry of Utah is true to his name, for in entering the Governor's room he showed how nimble he could be and in a facetious way referred to his journey across the country. "Why, it rained all the way to Boston. You know rain is something new to us." He remarked as he entered the Governor's chamber.

* * *

With a face full of smiles, Governor Samuel V. Stewart of Montana observed, "We call Montana the treasure State. Why we are constantly making millionaires out there with our mines."

* * *

Edwin G. Cooley of Chicago, formerly Superintendent of Schools in the Windy City, is an inspiration to meet. He can tell you anything along the lines of what the public school system should be. His ideas are fresh and inviting. "Ed" is a fine fellow, well rounded and popular.

* * *

For a keen observer, you must take a glance at H. E. Miles, who knows something about the American Continuance Schools. He is chairman of the National Manufacturers Association's Committee on Industrial Education and president of the Wisconsin State Board of Industrial Education. He wants to broaden out education. Everything can stand still, but education must advance miles with Miles.

* * *

Dr. E. A. Fitzpatrick, secretary of the educational conference, of Madison, Wis., is another keen-sighted educator. He has a plan for University extension. He wants education to be made so attractive that everyone will be interested in its methods.

* * *

Burt Williams, who made one of the most telling speeches at the education session of the Governors Conference, was formerly Mayor of Ashland, Wisconsin. He is now a well-known newspaperman in his State. He is also president of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities.

* * *

President Parke R. Kolbe of the University of Akron knows how to preside and keep the speakers in good trim. He wants everyone in the audience he presides over to tell "How we can make Mayors of cities and keep them getting better". He is a young man of prepossessing appearance.

BUSY OUTINGS PLANNED FOR WOMEN

The wives and daughters of the visiting Governors attending the convention were royally entertained today by women members of the hospitality committee.

They were taken on a tour of the department stores and they all down the harbor on the battleship Wyoming, flagship of the Atlantic fleet, with the Governors and other guests of the day to review the fleet off Gloucester.

After the review they and the Governors will attend the Italian Festa, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond at the beautiful Hammond estate in West Gloucester.

The hospitality committee, whose duty is to make it pleasant for the women visitors, took them on an automobile tour of the South Shore, following a luncheon given at the Hotel Lenox by the Misses Walsh, sisters of Governor Walsh.

The Governors and their wives and daughters were given a dinner by the Cambridge Chamber of Commerce at Memorial Hall, Harvard College.

Among the fair visitors enjoying the program today were Mrs. Frank M. Byrne, wife of the Governor of South Dakota; Mrs. Joseph M. Carey, wife of Ex-Governor Carey of Wyoming; Mrs. William C. Haines, wife of Ex-Governor Haines of Maine; Mrs. James S. Fielder, wife of Governor Fielder of New Jersey; Mrs. Richard I. Manning, wife of the Governor of South Carolina; Miss Margaretta Fort, daughter of Ex-Governor John P. Fort of New Jersey; Mrs. Ernest Lister, wife of the Governor of Washington; Mrs. Moses Alexander, wife of the Governor of Idaho; Mrs. P. L. Goldsborough, wife of the Governor of Maryland; Mrs. Macklin, also of Maryland; Mrs. Henry E. Quinby, wife of the Governor of New Hampshire; Mrs. William H. Mann, wife of the Governor of Virginia; Mrs. John A. Dix, wife of Ex-Governor Dix of New York; Mrs. Charles S. [illegible] of Governor Whitman of New York; Mrs.

TROOPS TO CAMP ON COMMON TONIGHT

Boston tonight will, for the first time since 1776, have an army division encamped within its confines. Not since the British evacuated Boston, has there been an army encamped in Boston.

Three brigades of Massachusetts Volunteer Militia with field artillery, signal corps, field hospital and ambulance company will camp on the same spot where, as the youths of Boston protested to General Gage, his "red coats" threw ashes and sand on their toboggan slide.

The vanguard of the mobilization camp, the field bakery of the Eighth Regiment, is already set up on the common. Late today the first of the troops will arrive, Company C, Eighth Regiment, of Cambridge, under the command of Captain Chaffing.

The militiamen will appear in the parade and review at the Common tomorrow. The cost of this mobilization is estimated at $30,000, but Governor Walsh, Adjutant-General Charles H. Cole and the members of the executive committee of the Governors' conference believe the people of Massachusetts should see just what the status of the State Militia is.

Company C will march in from the armory in Cambridge with their company wagon. On arrival at the Common they will establish a shelter tent camp, the men sleeping in the little "pup" tents, which they carry on the march.

Each man will carry his full equipment and blanket roll, and with their shelter halves will soon establish a home for themselves.

After the pitching of the camp the men will prepare their own supper, each man cooking [illegible] portion of bacon, onions and bread, as they do in active service, over small fires.

SOUND BODIES

By JULIAN HAWTHORNE

This is the thirty-seventh of a series of articles on "Sound Bodies" written exclusively for the Boston AMERICAN by Julian Hawthorne. These articles will be continued in the AMERICAN on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

When you have experienced the delights of performing on one leg, you will easily invent variations for yourself, so I will not take up space in suggesting them. The girth of your thigh and the strength of your knee will visibly increase, marking the rate of your progress. Let us meanwhile try a combination movement to test the flexibility of your waist and of the small of your back.

Taking first position, step out directly sideways, so that you stand a-straddle, like the Colossus of Rhodes. Join the fingers of both hands together in front. Now swing both arms round in a complete circle, beginning the movement toward the right, and carrying the hands up as high as the head, and down the other side.

As the hands come round from left to right, and down, bend the right knee a little and stoop the body over toward the right, so that the sweep of the linked hands will carry them below the knee, and lower yet, as far down, if you can manage it, as the ankles. Keep on with the swing, but keep the knees bent; bring the hands completely round again above the head, down again, and past the ankles again; and repeat this five times before erecting yourself once more. Keep the legs always straddled. Pause a moment, and then begin the swing from right to left, and stoop the back as they come down, so as to brush the left ankle as you have just brushed the right. Five times of that, and then start the right-hand wing again; make ten in each direction before stopping.

No other exercise will extend the waist, try the lower back and disturb the ignoble peace of your entrails more effectively than this. It is the liver exercise in a more dashing and enthusiastic form, and gets you not only in the small of the back, but in the sides of that region also, where the muscles had perhaps imagined that they would escape notice. And it wakes up the great nerve ganglion at the base of the spine, and thus augments the general vigor of the system.

The description may seem a little involved, but take the movement slowly at first and you will soon get the hang of it. It should be done without any hitch or interruption of motion. The main object is to get your hands as far downward as possible, and refuse to be satisfied till the fingers touch the feet as they pass the knee.

For abating the pride of a too protuberant abdomen, for correcting a falling appetite, and for feeble digestion, this exercise is a specific. But patent medicine vendors are steadily opposed to it.

New York Typos Still In.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—New York, Indianapolis and Cincinnati were the winners in the Union Printers' baseball tournament and will clash with Washington, St. Louis and St. Paul in the semi-final round tomorrow. Yesterday's scores: New York 11, Pittsburgh 5; Indianapolis 6, Chicago 0; Cincinnati 14, Detroit 3.

Lewis Working for Britton.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Ted Lewis, the English lightweight, is working like a beaver cutting in shape for his bout with Jack Britton at the Atlas A. A. in Boston next Tuesday night. Lewis realizes that a win over Britton will put him in line for a crack at Champion Freddie Welsh.

William Beats Direstum I.

MONTREAL, Aug. 25.—The match race between William and Direstum I. featured the Grand Circuit card yesterday, a $100 to $50 choice in the seals, won the only heat raced: time, (2:04). Owing to the bad condition of the track and the late hour the race was started, the last two heats went over until today.

RUTH OR LEONARD IN TODAY'S BATTLE

DETROIT, Aug. 25.—Now for scrap No. 2 in the current battling between the flying pacemakers, those pesky Red Sox from Boston, and the Village Prides. It goes on at Navin Field this afternoon, with Ruth or Leonard, or maybe Joe Wood, on the hillock for the enemy, and "Bill" James, Hughie Jennings' recent $15,000 purchase from St. Louis, or Monsieur Gene Dubuc, passing up the pellet for the residents, and there is every indication that another gala weekday crowd will be in attendance.

Carrigan doesn't see how he can lose it. Bill's sentiments are Hughie's sentiments, though naturally Hughie is picking Detroit.

The speedy men from the East were favored with all the breaks yesterday. The first inning of the combat, where cometh all three of the victory tallies, could easily have been played where they would have drawn a horse-collar.

THREE UNEARNED TALLIES.

Thereafter the luckless Coveleskie, with "Kid" Boland pulling the windup for him, and going just as brilliantly as the big Pole, saw that nothing but nothings came. So, those three unearned tallies that bobbed up in the first inning are what settled the Tigers.

Detroit fandom has been confident for the past month that the Tigers were going to come along and dislodge the Red Sox from first place. Maybe so and maybe no.

Anyhow, the best that can now come to pass, from a Detroit viewpoint, is for the Town Boys to get back to within half a game ahead of the Red Sox and make up the additional ground later on.

Carrigan is carrying around with him a wide, bland smile. He says that the Detroit players and "fans" are kidding themselves if they really believe that any other club but Houston is going to gather in the Hon. B. Johnson's pennant.

"General Bill" stated yesterday morning, right after coming to town, that his warriors would annex at least two games here this trip, and, as far as the final outcome of the race is concerned, it's the height of folly to figure any other club but Boston in the hunt.

HARD FIGHT ON.

Well, Carrigan is oft looming up a superior prophet to Jennings. The first contest belongs to the Red Sox, and each and every warrior of the Tigers' supporters know it is going to be a mighty difficult proposition for their pets to register two consecutive triumphs, so much good pitching is there on the Boston staff.

It looks like a Southpaw on the slab for the Red Sox in today's doubleheader—"Babe" Ruth or "Duke" Leonard, who whiffed 14 Brownies in the blowout battle on St. Louis.

Yes, Joe Wood is overdue—he hasn't worked on any stand in the West—but Carrigan's forenoon dig was that he would use a left-hander, James is Jennings' first pick for slab service. That will mean George Dauss, always a jinx to the Red Sox when they are in Detroit, tomorrow.

Funny! Benton Will Go Against Pirates

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—With "Rube" Benton, the former Cincinnati southpaw, awarded to the Giants, Gaffney of Boston and Ebbets of Brooklyn being the only directors permitted to vote, owing to the others being interested in the case, it is thought Johnny McGraw will use him in today's game with the Pirates.

BRAVES READY FOR BIG CUB SERIES

By RIGHT FIELD.

Roger Bresnahan is in our midst today with his trained Cubs, seeking whom they may devour. But there is to be very little devouring at the expense of the Braves, if they have their say and the teams keeps on going great guns, as it has since it returned home.

The Cubs, fresh from their victory over the leading Phillies just before they clambered on the Federal express, will have most of their breath taken away from them when they see our mammoth new ball yard. Then, if they have any breath remaining, the Braves plan to hammer it out of them with their trusty bludgeons.

"Fordham Dick" Rudolph, according to tradition, will open the series against the Rajah's men and is expected to hurl one of his customary tight little games. Young Arthur Nehf is a second choice, but it is "Fordham Dick" the "fans" may count upon seeing.

Performing for the Cubs we are likely to witness Big Jim Vaughn or Filbert Pierce.

Big Jim hasn't been sent out after a game since a week ago today, and, if he is right, will prove a tough nut. He is a willing worker, having favored the Rajah by journeying to the mound rising thirty times this season and now ranking high among the Tener pitchers on percentages.

Pierce is another bear for work. He has jumped into about thirty frays, too. Lavender, tamer of the Phillies yesterday, will probably work against us on Friday. Zabel and Humphries are other capable citizens Bresnahan has along.

SIDELIGHTS ON SPORTS

BY RIGHT FIELD

SIX out of seven, Braves, and still tearing into 'em.

BASED on the final Pirate game, that outfield of Magee, Snodgrass and Fitzpatrick, with seven hits for a total of ten between them, seems a mighty fine combination. The gardeners tallied six of those ten runs.

UMPIRE BYRON'S motion denoting a strike has the "follow through" effect so much sought by golfers. Starting with the right hand level with the shoulder, a broad arc carries the indicator hand downward and then up with a full sweep across the chest to the left shoulder. Some of the Brae-Burn members at the game are always expecting "Lord" Byron to call "fore" instead of "strike."

WELL, Rajah Bresnahan, those Cubs of yours can go as far as they like any time they hook up with the Phillies. It's something else what they do here.

WAGNER was feeling kittenish on the last day of his visit. He stood for a while in front of the Pirate dugout and pitched a lot of rainbow curves and then went out and fooled around in the pitcher's box. But he was "part panther or something" after the game began. He crowded "Limp" Byron to the general vicinity of the limit.

TO cap all of "Jake's" troubles, a ball thrown back from the press box and aimed at "Hank" Gowdy's waiting glove, hit Honus on the shoulder as he stood in the batter's box. The Dutchman slapped the ball to the outfielder as it bounced, for which "Limp" Byron promptly fined him. Then Honus struck out.

FRED CLARKE of the Pirates didn't see the sinking of his craft here. He had to go to New York on the Benton case.

THE Pirates hit the midnight. Secretary Waters taking away a check in which Saturday's 30,000 crowd played a leading part.

IT seems that Vean Gregg is going to be heard from in connection with Red Sox activities from now out. Some of the "fans" have him down to pitch at least one game in the World's Series.

VEAN GREGG right is one more angle to consider when figuring the Carrigans.

HOW much better it is to lace right into those Tigers than to let them take the first game of a series by 15 to 0, or some such score?

WHEN Fred Clarke put in a call at the Brunswick the other morning for 6 a. m. it looked as though he was going scouting for some new pirates. In reality he went up to Southbridge to confer about an invention of his in the optical line.

CALLAHAN LANDS VERDICT OVER GALLANT

ATLAS A. A. RESULTS.

Frankie Callahan, Brooklyn, defeated Gilbert Gallant, Chelsea, twelve rounds.

"Mickey" Brown, Malden, defeated "Percy" Green, Cambridge, eight rounds.

Johnny Emery, Medford, defeated Bob Sousa, Cambridge, six rounds.

Young Blades, Woonsocket, defeated Young Clancey, West End, six rounds.

FRANKIE CALLAHAN of Brooklyn, showed plenty of speed and willingness in his twelve-round tussle with Gilbert Gallant, the Chelsea lightweight, at the Atlas A. A. last night and was amply entitled to the award handed him by Martin Flaherty, who caused more or less of a furore by handling the main event in place of Paul Fovers.

Gallant did his best. He was never stronger than he was last night. In the rugged Ghetto boy from the lesser end of Greater New York Gilbert was meeting a boy who stands a couple of notches higher up in the lightweight division than Gil himself. Off badly, being floored for the count of nine in the first stanza, Gallant fought desperately all the way.

Outclassed somewhat by Callahan, being the inferior boxer and coming in for a lot of pecking and punching via the long distance route, Gallant, working cleanly, tried his gol-darndest to evade the ignominy of running second. But Callahan had a distinct shade on him throughout, winning the majority of the rounds and well merited the verdict given him by the buxom Flaherty.

IT was Callahan's first appearance in Boston. Dan McKetrick seldom ships a flyver to town and his new lightweight looms up a mighty good-looking ringster. Callahan can hit. That's a pipe. He has not only knocked down such nifty artists as Joe Mandot and Sam Robideau, but knocked Joe Rivers silly in two rounds.

Last night Callahan came close to duplicating his hurry-up Rivers victory at Gallant's expense. Busting away to a barrah start, showing the "fans" in his first act that he was a rapid-fire miller, Callahan came within an ace of putting the show on the blink then and there. A series of stiff lefts and rights slowed Gallant down to a walk. Then, over came a rapid left flush to the jaw and the Chelsea chap went down in a heap.

It seemed curtains for Gallant, sure, though Flaherty's toll was a quick one. Gil had his troubles climbing back on his feet when nine was reached, but by slipping into several clinches managed to stay out the round.

Messrs. McLean and Glover used the minute's interim to good advantage and sent their charge back looking might spic and span. The third essay was fairly even. The fourth belonged to Gallant; it was provably the lone one of the evening he won.

WHERE the battling is some, a few of the rounds were even, Callahan put up the superior work, having all the better of the exchanges in the eleventh and twelfth sessions.

In the semi-windup Mickey Brown went on with Patsy Green of Cambridge, instead of meeting Tommy Shea of New Haven, as originally planned. Brown put up a slashing contest and won handily enough.

Johnny Emery of Medford began by putting it over Bob Sousa of Cambridge, while Young Blades of Woonsocket proved the Section boy in his muss with Young Clancey of the West End.

ABE ATTELL, the former king of the featherweight class, who is pulling a breezy monologue at a Boston vaudeville house this week, attended as a guest of Mish Murray. Abe was introduced in advance of the main bout. The "fans" started in to sing him toe glad hand the instant he started to squeeze. He climbed through the ropes, and, once on the canvas, the famous Attell mailer was the recipient of an ovation.

Frankie Mack was likewise presented and also loudly cheered. He wants a set-to with Callahan.

Harvard Player a Victor.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 25.—George M. Church, Watson M. Washburn, William M. Johnston, Clarence J. Griffin and Ward Dawson are among the star players landing in the fourth round in the tennis tournament. J. Cotter Camp of Harvard won his match from A. H. Coffey of Princeton, 8—10, 6—1, 6—4.

Charles Wagner was born in Harlem, New York, September 23, 1881. Height 5 ft. 9 in. and weighs 174 lbs. He bats and throws right handed. He played second and third bases for Cincinnati from 1901 to 1904, National from 1905 to 1908. He was traded by the Red Sox to Detroit. He still shows flashes of the old speed that made him famous as a shortstop.

"THE RABBITS" COLUMN By Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

Well, boys, we've got our batting eyes in good trim for the Cubs. Give us an even break in luck and we'll dispose of the Brenaman-Hendricks jaunt as easily as we did the Pirates. I'll admit that we expect a fairly hard fight from the Cubs, but with the team going as it is now I honestly believe nothing can stop us.

* * *

We are gaining all the time. The grip that separates us from the Phillies has dwindled down to three games, and we are only a game and one-half behind the troublesome Dodgers. We jumped a full lap on both teams yesterday.

* * *

The Phillies seem to be giving way under the strain of this great race. Of course, it is hard to tell, being so far from the scene of battle, but a careful study of the box score today would indicate that the Moran pitchers are going badly.

* * *

Our pitchers are doing wonderful work. They are just beginning to find themselves again. Pat Ragan joined the select few yesterday. The chunky hurler didn't have to work hard, as we made plenty of runs behind him. But he did, he pitched "his head off." And he let his opponents down with five well-scattered hits. This exhibition, following those pulled by Hughes, Nehf and Rudolph makes our road a rosy one.

* * *

The most encouraging part of yesterday's game was our batting. If we can continue to hit, say two-thirds as well as we did in our final tilt with the Pirates, everything should come easy. It's the hitting that we want.

* * *

You "fans" are likely to see Eddie Plupatrick in the line-up quite often hereafter. Eddie has been used mostly as a substitute for Johnny Evers, but after his stick work of yesterday I am inclined to believe that Boss Stalings will see that he gets more work from now out.

* * *

I remarked yesterday that Evers had told me he was feeling much better than when the team was on the road. I didn't doubt Johnny in the least, but after watching him in his last few games I am more convinced than ever that he wasn't exaggerating a bit when he made the statement. Johnny is as spry as a kitten these days.

* * *

I was surprised the other day to see Evers trying to imitate "Nick" Altrock. He picked out our mascot as his partner and went through a series of stunts that would have made Altrock envious. He seemed to enjoy it immensely. That only goes to show how good Johnny feels these days.

* * *

When Evers is right the whole team is right. Everybody looks to Evers. Johnny gives us added confidence and he will be of great help to us in the series with the Cubs, which begins today. If there is any team that Johnny likes to beat it is Chicago.

* * *

I am told that Manager Moran of the Phillies is dickering for one of the Cub pitchers. He is said to be angling for either Vaughn or Cheney. If this is true it only goes to prove my previous statements that Pat's pitching staff must be pretty well used up.

* * *

Fred Snodgrass seems to have found his batting eye. If Fred can keep it up he will prove of great aid to our team. Snodgrass is a seasoned veteran and specially valuable in a tight race like we are having now.

Gotham Boxing.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Jimmy Johnson will stage an all-colored show at the St. Nicholas Rink next Wednesday night. From the present outlook Sam Langford and Harry Wills of New Orleans will be the principals in the main bout.

AD WOLGAST is working hard at New Dorp, preparing for his match with Packey Hommey, scheduled for the Clermont avenue rink in Brooklyn next Monday night. If Hommey has anything to say about it the Michigan wildcat will have a tough time of it trying to put the rollers under him. Joe Azevedo and Phil Bloom, who fight in the other star bout, will also be in excellent shape for the mill.

CHARLEY WEINERT, who meets Jim Savage at Madison Square Garden next Tuesday night, will do his training at Saratoga and work with Al Kubiak, the Michigan Giant, who will at the same time prepare himself for his bout with Jim Stewart at the Vanderbilt A. C. September 3.

Golfer Kerr Reaches Detroit.

DETROIT, Aug. 25.—H. K. Kerr of Greenwich, Connecticut champion, and Max R. Maraton, Baltusrol, holder of the New Jersey title, are among the Eastern golfers practicing on the Country Club links for the big amateur championship tournament. Play commences Saturday.

Miss Rosenthal Is Going Right Along

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—The play of Miss Elaine Rosenthal of Chicago, runner-up in the women's national golf championship last year, featured the competition in the women's Western golf championship on the Midlothian Country Club course. Miss Rosenthal repeated her gold medal score of 91, defeating Miss Laurie Kaiser, woman champion of Chicago.

Mrs. Harry D. Hammond of Indianapolis, defending her title, approximated 98 in defeating Mrs. K. F. Perkins of Chicago.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 25.—Pitcher Vance, captured from St. Joseph, Mo., and a Pirate last Spring, reported to Manager Mowrey of the Yankees.

MAX ROOS

Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Boston, Detroit or Chicago?"

It matters not to the twenty-five men in the Boston AMERICAN'S World Series Contest whether Philadelphia, Detroit, Brooklyn or Chicago carries the flag, these lucky ones shall witness these games wherever played.

The third last series is now more than half over, and there remain only two more series to be played. Time is slipping by fast and before you know it these twenty-five lucky fans will be packing up, making ready to journey from town to town on the special Pullman provided by the Boston AMERICAN, wherever the games may be played. Stopping at the best hotels and nothing to worry them, only to enjoy these wonderful World Series games.

Then, Mr. Candidate, to secure all this, it is necessary to be among the twenty-five at the close of this contest.

You do not have to be first in the list in order to win. There are twenty-five free trips waiting for twenty-five fans, and it is up to you to decide whether or not you will be among them.

Max Roos of No. 89 Water street, Springfield, Mass., is quite enthusiastic about his position in the vote standing published last Sunday. He states that he will make some of the other candidates hustle in trying to oust him from his proud position. He also says that he will not be satisfied until he leads the list. Judging by the way his Springfield friends are rallying to his support, it will not be surprising if Mr. Roos does secure this position. That he intends being one of Springfield's representatives on this trip is very well demonstrated by his fighting efforts.

Commission O. K.'s $32,000 Fight Purse

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—There will be no hitch in the payment of the $32,500 purse for the ten-round Packey McFarland-Mike Gibbons fight to be staged here next month. The State Boxing Commission looked into the financial standing of Chauncey Marshall, Jr., and William C. Marshall, the promoter, and put the O. K. on the meeting. It will cost the Marshalls in the neighborhood of $50,000 to stage the bout, but they proved to the commission that they would "make good."

WILLARD WILL BE READY IN OCTOBER

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25.—Jack Curley of St. Louis and the rest of the world, returned to this city for a brief visit to look over the little old burg where he first embarked in the management of boxers—a career which led him into the promotion of the Johnson-Jess Willard fight at Havana last April.

Curley, while head waiter in a local cafe, some twenty years ago undertook the management of Frankie Neil, then a bellhop at the Planters' Hotel and one of the cleverest boxers the city ever developed. Neil is now a sporting writer on a San Antonio newspaper.

"We are ready to match Willard this Fall against any fighter that we think will make a good attraction," replied Curley to a question about Willard's next appearance. "It is not the right time to hold a big bout just now, and besides we are making money out of Jess and we want to run until the 181 Ranch Show season closes.

"That will be in October. After that we will get busy with the ring."

Phils and Dodgers Huggins' Choices

NEW YORK, Aug. 2'.—Manager Miller Huggins of the Cardinals predicts that Philadelphia and Brooklyn will fight it out for the National League championship.

"These teams are getting the best pitching, and pitching is everything in baseball," said the Cardinals' manager. "Boston and New York are weak in the box. McGraw has the best team he ever assembled, barring his batteries.

"Big James' collapse and Dick Rudolph's failure to duplicate his 1914 record have crippled the Braves. Hitting is Chicago's forte. Good twirling will stop the Cubs.

"I look for Philadelphia to win, if Alexander stands up. The big, corn-fed Nebraska farmer has already won twenty-two games for Pat Moran's boys. He'll win ten or twelve more before the season ends. Brooklyn should be the runner-up."

Grand Circuit Meet at Empire City Off

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The Grand Circuit meet, advertised to open August 21 at the Empire City track, will not take place, according to a statement made by a director of the Empire City Racing Association.

It is alleged that the stabling of more than 30,000 horses at the track previous to shipping them to Europe had irreparably damaged the plant.

TWO BIG MATCH RACES AT BIKE OVAL TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S RACE CARD.

30-MILE MOTOR-PACED MATCH RACE—George Wiley, Syracuse, N. Y., vs. Victor Linart, Antwerp, Belgium, vs. Georges Seres, Paris, France.

PROFESSIONAL SPRINT MATCH (best two in three heats)—Pat Logan, South Boston, vs. Willie Turville, Revere, vs. L. C. Rollins, Everett.

Two big match races head a well balanced bill at the Revere Cycle Track tonight.

The real feature of the evening's entertainment will be the three-cornered thirty-mile motor-paced contest between George Wiley, Victor Linart and Georges Seres.

This race was arranged as the direct result of a challenge from Wiley to Linart. As Wiley is not in favor of two-men events he stipulated that there must be a third man in the race.

Linart agreed to this and Seres, because of his good work at the Beach Oval lately, was selected.

Speculation is rife as to the outcome of the big professional sprint race, with Pat Logan of South Boston, L. C. Rollins of Everett and Willie Turville of Revere as the starters.

Since joining the "pros" Turville and Rollins have made life uneasy for the old-timers. Logan was one of the select few who held the youngsters at bay, and when a match race was suggested Manager Butler lost no time in signing up the trio.

Wiley is a slight favorite in the paced event. The little champion is primed for this race, which he is more anxious to win than any other on account of his doing the challenging.

Wiley felt it was his duty to challenge Linart since the Belgian has proved himself the best of the foreign pace followers.

RING RESULTS.

RIDDEFORD, Aug. 25.—Ray Wood and George Alger went six fast rounds here. In the fourth round the two boys rolled out of the ring, and continued their pummeling while on the ground. In the semi-windup Jim Moreau knocked out Joe Lessard in the first round.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Harry Stone outpointed Jack Britton in a ten-round bout at the Walker A. C. in Far Rockaway.

"Between Taps!"

(A Little Trip to "Would-Be Land")

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1915, by International News Service.

GO softly with your little stenographer, and don't get too sour if she grows absent-minded in the dog-days; because it's mighty "slumpsey weather, and she's truly got to take little trips into "would-be land" between taps, where it's shady and flowery and whispery with the wind that comes from the hills and water; where there's a hammock slung and the voice of a typewriter is never heard! It rests a fellow!

And I wager you take little wishing trips yourself between grinds.

The Light That Never Fails

It Shines Even for Those Whose Folly Blinds Them

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

A VERY pathetic letter has come to me from one of those poor women made outcast by the cruelty of what she mistook for love. At twenty-four she finds life almost hopeless, and her one longing for a child of her own seems to her to be a dream that may never be realized. All her yearning today is for goodness, for conventionality and for the joy of home. Pathetically and almost hopelessly she asks me if I think they can ever be hers.

I believe firmly that God is Love, and that in His infinite wisdom He forgives any of his children who have strayed from the path, and that He builds no walls about it against those who seek it again.

We humans are not so kind to one another—we are not so merciful to our brothers and sisters as is the Father of us all. When you consider the simple facts of family life this will seem natural enough. In your own youth, when your brothers and sisters offended you, or by their actions disgraced you in the eyes of others, did you not find it hard enough to forgive them?

But think of the infinite mercy in your own father's heart. He may have punished because he felt the necessity of disciplining—but he forgave—again and again. Can any of us conceive of an almighty Father less merciful than a human parent we have known?

For the little child who has strayed from the path of righteousness punishment generally takes the form of human ostracism. The woman who has not held her heritage of womanhood sacred has failed in a very beautiful trust. And the price she pays is tremendous. But, after all, I think the heaviest part of her debt is her own knowledge of failure.

To the girl who wrote me the very sad letter asking for a message of hope I offer this honest conviction. May it buoy her up! Her salvation and happiness are absolutely in her own hands. If she turns from the by-paths of life back to the honest road of clean living and pure thinking, if she sacrifices lovable friends and dishonest comforts, and works loyally and staunchly for ever so small a wage and with ever so little joy, she will win back in the end to the land of self-respect.

No matter what fails you, if you have a right to feel that you are honest and decent and straight and clean, in that there is a measure of happiness. Fighting back isn't easy, but it means winning again your own self-esteem—and through that the respect of others. A victory in the face of odds is a big thing.

A woman who will give up luxury and spurious love and sham friends, and actually go to scrubbing floors, will win her way back to a feeling of the joy that comes to all those who dare face the world across the shield of honest labor.

Loneliness may come for a time, but in the end the strength that could fight must turn into the simple, honesty and uprightness that win respect. It needs a big, sturdy-souled man to take on himself a woman who has strayed from the paths of her best self. But if she fights back to them again, a man of kindly soul will admire her for her victory over almost overwhelming odds. And if she is honest about her struggle and modest about the victory over past blundering, he may still give her the proud title of "good woman."

It is worth the fight. In the victory itself lies joy, and if greater joy comes it will be recently appreciated, while if it does not come there is still the glorious victory over self to make life worth the living.

Why We Quarreled

No. 5—The Wife with a Nagging Spouse Tells Her Story

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

I WONDER if many women have fussy husbands. I am married to a man who nags—and that is the chief cause of our quarrels.

I have always thought that a woman who nags and fusses is bad enough, but a man who has these habits is a hundred times worse than the woman who has them.

My housekeeping and management of my home are the things about which my husband worries. Perhaps the difference in our ages has something to do with this. He was forty when I married him, and I was but twenty-five. I did not realize then that he might be what the country people would call "set in his ways." He had lived at home with his mother, who was a model housekeeper. The year after her death we married.

I mention these facts simply by way of explanation of the truth that he is more particular than I.

When we settled in our house, I did not suppose that he would ever trouble himself as to how it was run. My father always left that kind of thing to my mother, but Andrew, my husband, is different.

AFTER A MONTH

We had been married only a month when we had our first quarrel on this score.

"My dear," Andrew said reprovingly at breakfast one morning, "as I came downstairs just now I noticed some cobwebs in the corner of the hall, close to the ceiling. Will you have them brushed away, please?"

His tone irritated me slightly and I replied, "Why, yes, of course I will, when I get around to them. I noticed them myself yesterday and meant to attend to them anyway."

"I am surprised," he remarked, "that you did not brush them down as soon as you saw them."

"I had other things to do at the time," I told him.

He folded his lips in the thin line of disapproval with which I have since become familiar and I knew that inwardly he was criticising my housekeeping. But I pretended not to see this and began to talk of other things.

Now, however, I have become accustomed to his constant criticisms—recognized, but not reconciled to them. He is, in slang phrase, "a regular Betty." Last week he accidentally mentioned that he had observed I had let something interfere with my cleaning the silver. He had always supposed I had a regular day for silver-cleaning. His mother always had.

"Yes, I said, I had a regular day for it, too. But, as he knew, my maid had been ill last Wednesday and so I had let the silver alone.

"If you took more interest in your home," he suggested, "you would let nothing interfere with your household duties. A man cannot afford to neglect his business in that way."

For a moment I did not know just how to answer, and he continued:

"While we are on this subject I want to ask you to be more careful about the amount of provisions used, or wasted. Last week we used a pound more butter than the week before. Why was that?"

"We had a good many fresh vegetables," I said, "and they take a great deal of butter for their proper preparation."

"That hardly accounts for a whole pound extra," he objected. "You should keep your eye on such matters and exercise more care."

The habit of nagging and faultfinding grows on him until I sometimes feel that I can stand it no longer. I often hear him go softly out into the kitchen at night after the maid has gone up to her room and the sound of the opening and closing of the icebox and pantries comes to my ears. If he finds nothing amiss he says nothing to me of his investigations. But if anything is out of place—and something usually is out of place in every kitchen—he tells me of it gravely and reproachfully.

A few nights ago I was very tired and went to my room early. I was just falling asleep, when he opened my door and spoke my name sternly.

"What's the matter?" I queried, startled.

"YOU OUGHT TO HELP IT."

"That maid of yours went out and left on the kitchen table the cake-plate with the sliced cake on it, just as it came out from the dining room after dinner."

His tone was as portentous as if he had informed me of a national calamity.

"Well, what if she did?" I rejoined. "I cannot help it."

"You ought to help it," he declared. "I have put the cake away in the cake-box myself. Not only is such carelessness untidy and extravagant, but it attracts mice and water bugs."

I said nothing, but turned over with a sigh, and closed my eyes. Yet Andrew lingered.

"You will speak to the maid about it in the morning, of course?" he persisted.

I was weary and nervous and the last vestige of patience deserted me.

"Oh, Andrew!" I exclaimed. "For goodness' sake don't be so petty! I wish you would run your office—which is your job—and let me run the house!"

"Then it would never be run," he remarked dryly.

"And I don't care if it never is!" I exclaimed. "All I do care about is to have you let me alone and stop nagging!"

Many wives will think—perhaps with reason—that I was inexcusably rude. But let those who condemn me try for only a little while to live with a fussy and nagging husband.

Anecdotes of the Famous

THE following reminiscence is related by the well-known composer, Isidore de Lara, writing of his opera, "Messaline." One night the principal baritone fell ill, and the manager implored Mr. de Lara to take his place, as the theatre was filled with people, and to disappoint them was out of the question. Mr. de Lara consented to do so, but stipulated that he should not dress for the part. Accordingly he made his appearance on the stage in a frock coat, although all the other characters wore the costumes of ancient Rome.

In the part he was playing he had to be thrown to the ground by Messaline's slaves. The "slaves" flung him down so violently, however, that a quantity of money which he had in his pocket rolled all over the stage.

It is possible that the audience might not have noticed this little piece of unrehearsed by-play had not the "slaves" became so excited at the sight of the coins that they left their captive and rushed to pick them up with the eagerness of gold-miners who had struck a pile of nuggets.

"Pain," says Mr. de Lara, "was the great moment of the evening."

The extraordinary care with which Tolstoy read and re-read his proofs is shown by Count Ilya Tolstoy, son of the famous Russian author, in his "Reminiscences of Tolstoy."

"When my father's story, 'Anna Karenina,' began to come out monthly galley-proofs were posted to him to correct.

"At first he would mark the margins with the ordinary typographical signs, letters omitted, marks of punctuation, and so on; then he would change individual words, and then whole sentences. That would be followed by erasures and additions until the proof sheets became a mass of patches, perfectly black in places.

"It was impossible to send them back as they stood, because no one except my mother could make head or tail of the tangle of signs, transpositions and erasures. My mother would sit up all night copying the whole thing out afresh.

"In the morning the pages lay on her table, neatly piled together, and covered with her fine, clear handwriting. Everything would be ready to send them away. My father would carry them to his study to have 'one last look,' and by evening the sheets were all written over and messed up once more.

"'Sonya, my dear, I am very sorry, but I've spoilt all your work again; I promise I won't do it any more,' he would say, showing her the passages he had ticked over, with a guilty air. We'll send them off tomorrow without fail.' But that tomorrow was often put off for weeks or even months.

"'There's just one bit I want to look through again,' my father would say, but he would get carried away and rewrite it all afresh. There were occasions when, after he had posted the proofs, my father corrected them by telegraph the next day."

Where Fortunes Are Waiting

Great Treasures Which Would Satisfy Even the Most Avaricious

STORIES of sunken treasure are legion. Some have a foundation of fact; others are pure legend, and have sometimes resulted in thousands of dollars being spent in an attempt to recover the mythical millions. There does not seem to be much doubt, however, that beneath the waves of La Hogue, the roadstead on the east side of the island of Cotentin, in the north of France, a huge fortune lies buried.

It was there in 1692 that the great naval battle of La Hogue was fought between the French fleet and the combined English and Dutch fleets, when sixteen French men-of-war were entirely destroyed, thirteen of the latter being sunk.

These ships included the flower of the French navy. Three of the French vessels, including the flagship of Admiral de Tourville, were said to be the finest men-of-war in the world. In addition to many men, they carried much bullion, most of which had been obtained from captured prizes.

Round the South African coast are about twenty wrecks, which it is reckoned would yield $30,000,000 in salvage. Among these wrecks are the troopship Mereston, supposed to contain $5,000,000 in gold; the Thermopylae, wrecked in 1898, with an unknown number of silver bars on board; the Wilhelm der Second, with a pirate's treasure in her hull; the Grayenstein, a merchantman belonging to the Netherlands Government; the Middleburg, lost in 1898, and, the most interesting, if not the most valuable wreck of all, the Dorothea, which left Delagoa Bay at the end of 1898 with gold valued at £3,000,000 on board, and went down off Cape Vidal, in Zululand.

For hundreds of years the belief has prevailed that gold dust and gems to the value of $5,000,000,000 lie buried at the bottom of the sacred lake of Guatavita, in Colombia, a territory once occupied by Indian tribes renowned for their fabulous wealth, and many attempts have been made to drain the lake without success.

The lake was emptied in 1902, but it kept refilling on account of the heavy rains and the presence of springs. A certain number of jewels and ornaments found in the mud of the lake-bed seemed to indicate that the search for hidden treasure was to prove successful. Then the mud dried hard and a fresh difficulty was thus encountered. Ever since the engineers have been continuing operations, but no further treasure has come to light. After an outlay of $100,000 it was decided to abandon the hunt. It remains to be seen whether anyone else will take up the search.

Makes the Eyes Clear, White and Beautiful.

If your eyes ever get bloodshot and yellow you can clear them up in half a minute and make them bright and sparkling by dropping a single drop of pure liquid alkalite in each eye. It's wonderful how quickly this powerful little works and how safe it is entirely safe as it contains no cocaine, belladonna or harmful drugs of any kind—no boracic acid, and it cannot possibly smart or injure the eyes. This prescription is fine to use before going out in the evening to make the eyes clear and white. Riker-Jaynes and leading druggists everywhere have it put up and ready for use. A great many leading eye specialists endorse and recommend this same prescription and use it in their own practice.—Advertisement.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT THAT ITCHING RASH

Don't worry any more about that itching skin-trouble. Just spread a little resinol ointment over the sick skin and the itching disappears as if you had simply wiped it away.

And—even more important—this soothing, healing ointment gets right to the source of the trouble and rarely fails to clear away every trace of the unsightly, tormenting eruption.

Doctors have prescribed resinol ointment for over twenty years, and thousands owe their clear, healthy skins to its use. It contains nothing that could injure or irritate the tenderest skin. Sold by all druggists. Sample free. Dept. 29-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.—Advertisement.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET
By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks opened strong in New York, where trading was very active. But, as usual, most of the business was in war order issues. But there was a bigger range to rails and coppers. The statement that Germany has asked the United States to delay action in regard to the sinking of the Arabic promoted bullish sentiment. There was hope that the international situation is not as grave as has been believed. During the recent decline there was heavy liquidation of stocks by small speculators and large interests are also credited with considerable selling. An extensive short interest was established and its existence is an important market factor now.

Stocks are in stronger hands than before the latest slump. Wall Street says the public has resumed buying on a large scale. This may be of value as indicating the opinion of people in general as to the international outlook, for the time being uneasiness or nervousness underlying the New York market when it opened. New York Air Brake and Tennessee Copper sold at the highest prices in eight years while Amalgamated Copper and U. S. Steel made a large gain and Southern Pacific and Northern Pacific were strong among railroads.

At the end of fifteen minutes some sessions had reached a little but the list held advances well as a whole. In some stocks there was profit taking, but the market readily absorbed all offerings. Early gains in New York included Allis-Chalmers 1¼, American Can 1½, Car and Foundry 2¾, American Locos 1¾, Baldwin 2¼, Bethlehem Steel, Colorado Fuel 1¼, Crucible 2¾, Distillers 3, General Electric 2, General Motors 3, Goodrich, Rubber 2½, Mexican Petroleum 1¾, N. Y. Air Brake 4½, Pressed Steel 2¾, Republic Steel 1½, Studebaker 3½, Tennessee Copper 1, Westinghouse 1¾, Anaconda 1, Great Northern Ore subscription 1, Ohio 1, Canadian Pacific 1¾, N. Y. Central 1, Northern Pacific ½, Reading ½, Southern Pacific 1¼, Union Pacific 1¼, and U. S. Steel 1½. Prices ranged still higher as the hours of business wore on.

The New York statement reads: "Never in the present generation has there been such a record of exciting trading on the long side as that of the opening. Gains ranged from one to more than thirteen points and almost everything took part. Offerings of stocks by small speculators and large interests are also credited with considerable selling. An extensive short interest was established and its existence is an important market factor now.

BROOKLINE FANS ASK TRANSFER PRIVILEGE

Sidney V. Rintels of Brookline has written the following letter to the Boston AMERICAN:

"Editor Boston AMERICAN:

"I come to the Boston AMERICAN because I believe your paper will take up the complaint of a baseball fan who feels himself imposerly used.

"Brookline contains many men who like the ball game, but through some lack of preparation, or because of some misfortune in the past, we residents of Brookline have to pay ten cents to return home from the ball game at Braves Field.

"If you will investigate you will find that present decisions of the club at Braves Field for Brookline must either come in town, or, taking the most direct route (fare five cents), go through Commonwealth avenue, and debarking at the corner of Commonwealth avenue and Harvard street, pay five cents more to ride to Brookline Village, Coolidge Corner, Chestnut Hill, Cypress street, South Huntington avenue, Jamaica Plain or Roxbury Crossing. This, to the man who goes to the ball gave every day, means thirty cents a week extra to take the most direct route home.

"The Elevated will issue no transfers from the corner of Commonwealth avenue and Harvard street to go on what is unquestionably a continuous and direct ride to Coolidge Corner, Brookline and points beyond.

"Cannot something be done about this? Checks could be issued on ball game days at this corner; or a switch could be put in and special cars run to the ball game to the points named.

"I understand that the Elevated Railroad claims that passengers could ride in town after being transferred to Brookline Village and points beyond. How ridiculous this is. What person, bound in-town from the ball game, would want to ride through Brookline before going to his destination?

"I ask the AMERICAN to start something that will remedy this inconvenience and overcharge to the baseball fans who read the Boston AMERICAN. Very truly yours.

"SIDNEY V. RINTELS."

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

"You Have a Fine City Here," Said the Governor

Being a Polite Governor, What Else COULD He Have Said? But What Do You Suppose He THOUGHT About Our Streets?

IT may be a trifle late in the day, but it occurs to the AMERICAN to suggest a change in the route of tomorrow's parade of the militia.

Governor Walsh should have some thought for the reputation of Boston, the pride of Bostonians, and the self-satisfaction of members of the City Council. The Governor should not exhibit some of the business thoroughfares of Boston to the Governors of thirty States.

If there is still time, we implore His Excellency to call the Adjutant-General to his side and send forth new General Orders.

Our suggestion would be that the militiamen be marched back and forth, for an hour or so, in Tremont, Boylston, Washington and Summer streets.

If this cannot be done would the Governor consider having our guests cover tomorrow's six-mile line of march in aeroplanes?

Something should be done, and at any cost, to keep our distinguished visitors from seeing—and feeling—the wobbledy-hobbledy pavements of the fifth city and second port of the United States of America.

The Almighty Dollar and the World-War

NEVER before in the history of the world has one great nation had so many things that all other great nations need as the United States has today.

Germany feeds, clothes and arms her own people—so much has protection and technical skill done for Germany.

But all other belligerents are now dependent upon the United States for soldiers' shoes and clothing, for munitions of war, for army automobiles, and, above all, for food for their civilians as well as soldiers. With home industry partly paralyzed by war in England, France, Russia and Italy, all these nations must come to the United States for the necessaries of life and war, both produced here in abundance.

This condition, quite unprecedented, has led to a crisis in the international money situation as acute as it is interesting, as exciting as it is significant.

This problem, which the greatest financiers and statesmen of Europe are now trying with all their might to solve, is very simple and easy to understand, but far from easy for the European financiers to straighten out.

It is not at all a question of how to conduct the war. It is simply a question of how to pay a wealthy producer for the things that must be bought if the war is to be carried on at all.

Sir George Paish, editor of the London Statist, an authority highly esteemed in England, says that in the fiscal year ended July 1 Europe ran in debt to the United States more than one thousand million dollars, which we all know. But he predicts that she will run in debt another thousand million dollars in only six months, and that at the end of this fiscal year (June 30, 1916) Europe will owe the United States, on balance, TWO THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS for the trade of this current year alone.

To owe this sum means to owe it in GOLD. Now, the entire stock of gold in the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the Imperial Bank of Germany a week ago was, in round figures, respectively, $328,000,000 for England, $854,000,000 for France, and $601,000,000 for Germany. The total gold of the three richest belligerents, therefore, is $1,793,000,000, or more than TWO HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS LESS than the eminent British financial expert says will be owing to the United States for this year's trade.

All international debts are paid in GOLD or its equivalent. In normal times the "equivalent" is the merchandise Europe sells us, the ocean freights and insurance we have to pay (having almost no ships of our own in oversea trade), the expenses of Americans residing abroad and of 100,000 American tourists who ordinarily go to Europe in Summer (these last two items are $200,000,000 annually), and finally the foreign money sent to the United States for investment.

This year there are smaller merchandise exports from Europe than in any year for a generation; very few ocean freight bills to pay (as our customers abroad pay their own freight); almost no travelers' remittances, because Americans are staying home, and no new investments by Europe here, as Europe is "broke" and unable to invest in much of anything except war.

There remain, therefore, only three ways in which Europe can now settle her billion-dollar debt to us for the past year and her two-billion-dollar debt which, according to Sir George Paish, she will have to pay next year.

The three ways are: 1—To remit gold; 2—To resell to us American railroad bonds and stocks which she owns; or, 3—Borrow from us.

Europe has tried the first two ways in the past six months, and both have failed to stop the flood. She has in six months sent us over $120,000,000 in gold—a mere drop in the bucket of debt. She has tried to persuade all European holders of our bonds and stocks to sell them back to us. The European investors have, very grudgingly (because American investments are now the best in the world), sent us back between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000 worth of our stocks and bonds. These have been readily absorbed here, BUT EUROPE'S DEBT TO US HAS STEADILY PILED UP IN SPITE OF IT.

There remains the third way—to borrow from us. This alternative is about to be taken. It is a bitter alternative, as England has never before borrowed money abroad. She has, instead, financed the world, greatly profiting thereby, as all prudent, thrifty money-lenders do. Now she must pay her five per cent. interest on $100,000,000 at first, and at least $500,000,000 finally—twice the interest she paid on her home loans prior to the war.

Last, but not least, of the entire $500,000,000 to be borrowed here not one penny of it will be sent abroad. It will all be paid out here to American producers of the things England and France and Russia must have.

This gigantic but very simple transaction in international exchange is not needed to prove that the AMERICAN DOLLAR is today the best money-measure in Christendom. It has superseded and supplanted the British gold sovereign as the monetary standard.

This is due to the fact that we now hold as a nation over TWO THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS in actual gold, most of it in the United States Treasury and in national bank vaults, while England, France and Russia have not gold enough in their treasuries to pay their current debts to us. This would be equally true of Germany, except that she has contracted no war debt outside her own borders. But Germany, like the other belligerents, is hoarding gold and paying out paper money. GOLD IS AT A PREMIUM EVERYWHERE EXCEPT IN THE UNITED STATES.

England has forbidden postmasters to pay out any gold coin handed in to them. France has by decree prohibited any person or private banker "to export or re-export any gold, either in coin, bullion or broken-up articles under any rule, custom or pretense whatever." Germany strips ordinary travelers of their gold at her frontier, giving them paper money in lieu of it.

One important result is already noted. Merchants of neutral countries like Denmark and Spain are now beginning to make bills for foreign merchandise, whether bought in the United States or elsewhere, PAYABLE IN AMERICAN DOLLARS, instead of in pounds sterling as heretofore. This is always the creditor's way. He naturally dictates that payment shall be made in the best money in the world—that is now the American dollar!

But with money sufficient to finance the world, and the strength of a giant in industry, the United States is, in its merchant marine, a baby so weak that it has to be carried in the arms of aliens.

Science for Workers

By Edgar Lucien Larkin

BETWEEN clouds I was fortunate to get a view of the sun at 8:40 on the morning of April 5. The solar disk was a scene of enormous spot-areas. Nothing within recent years can compare with these in magnitude and activity.

Then there were three groups of spots, and there were 37 in the three. But one of these spots in the largest group was larger than all of the others combined.

The great group was approximately 200,000 miles in length. The spots were distributed along a track roughly parallel to the solar equator. There were 21 spots in this long group or cluster. The largest spot was approximately 85,000 miles in length and from 20,000 to 35,000 miles wide. At the time of observation a jet or tongue of incandescent matter was just forming on one side, making ready to cross the black abyss below.

The edges of this huge spot presented a wild scene of solar turbulence. The penumbra was wide and pronounced, while the giant umbra was indeed black in contrast.

Still further along were the others, growing smaller and smaller to the end of the series.

The second spot had a jet or bridge of white-hot matter entirely across its chasm. These bridges widen and submerge the spot within a day or two after formation. The two separate and smaller groups were evidently remains of huge spots that had been covered by jets or tongues.

No effect of sunspots on the earth has been discovered, save magnetic disturbances, as on compasses and telegraphs. Needles vibrate when spots are tossed and torn.

Q.—"About seven months ago I heard you say in a lecture in the observatory that 75 per cent. of all books in existence could be annihilated without loss. Did I hear correctly?"—T. N. Subscriber.

A.—Not correctly; I meant 99 per cent. Perhaps I said 75. If so, I wish now to recall and substitute 99. On the face of this question, books pretending to explain things written centuries before a solitary law of nature had been discovered are not only useless, but actually harmful. Nine-tenths of all books now in print are practically obsolete. Even discoveries made since January 1, 1900, make nine out of ten obsolete.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

The Mosquito

As Shelley Might Have Hymned Him

CURSE thee, evil spirit!
That from marsh land slime,
Or the mudflats near it,
Comest in Summertime
To carry out thy well premeditated crime!

NIGHER still and nigher
Through the gloom thou springest,
Humming hymns of ire,
Toward thy work thou wingest
And stingest ever stingest and singing ever stingest.

WHEN the world is sleeping
In the quiet night,
On thy victim leaping
Thou dost gouge and bite,
The while thou murmurest songs of rapturous delight!

DRUGGISTS do not sell a
Bane for such as thee;
Oil of citronella
Fills thy soul with glee,
Thou wrigglest through screen doors with calm facility

HATREDS among nations
Seem a paltry thing.
Bitter detestations
Mild amusement bring
When matched by mortal minds with thy malignant sting!

TEACH me half the badness
That is thy black art.

Such malevolent madness
Would possess my heart
That I could lick the world—and give it two years' start!

Piker Investment

A Kansas man was fined six cents for calling another man a cur. Next time he will spend a little more money and call him something more satisfying.

Always on the Job

The fool killer is never so busy with the men that rock the boat that he hasn't plenty of time to attend to the people who eat luncheon on the bathing beaches and plunge into deep water for a long swim immediately afterward.

Filling a Long Felt Want

At last a machine has been invented that can measure time to the ten millionth part of a second, so that taxi drivers will never more be in peril of undercharging fares for time spent in waiting in front of department stores and offices.

One More Recruit

Robert Fitzsimmons ought to be welcomed by Nat Goodwin and De Wolf Hopper into the Peter, Peter Pumpkin Eater Association.

Too Modest

Mr. Perkins says the Progressives will make peace with the G. O. P. if the latter institution will accept T. R. for President and adopt the Progressive platform. But why T. R. for President? The G. O. P. would think far more favorably of the Progressive possessing the biggest bank roll.

Outward Order and Decency

A court has held that a man may not swear on the public street. In other words, he must be a gentleman to everybody but his own immediate family.

Frances Starr Tells How a Girl May Succeed as an Actress

By Frances Starr

Miss Starr is one of the foremost actresses on the American stage today. She has attained her present enviable rank in her profession entirely through her own enterprise, work and study. In a comparatively short time she has risen from minor parts in a stock company to her position as David Belasco's most important woman star.

AT the risk of reiteration in this, my last article in the series of advice to the girl who wishes to become an actress, I must again say that there is perhaps no quality which makes more surely for success in a theatrical career than the ability to work.

One hears much of "inspiration," but I say that the actress who leans too heavily upon inspiration will find it a slender reed.

In my belief there never has been and there never will be any such thing as an actress giving "an inspired performance" every night. Doubtless there have been inspired conceptions of a role. Doubtless there have been inspired performances of that same role subsequently. But there are always nights when one's vital forces are at low ebb. At such times the actress absolutely must have her carefully wrought creation, the solid foundation of an intelligent conception and her months of hard work in preparation to fall back upon.

I should say that any actress who glides over the study of a part superficially, rehearsing it half-heartedly, depending upon inspiration for her success when the curtain finally rises upon the play, gambles with an almost certain chance of loss.

The understanding and sympathy which enable an actress to comprehend a charcter may be inspired. But the voice and gestures and expression which enable her to convey her picture to the public every night are nothing more nor less than the result of months of labor. Perfection in acting, as in every art, is made up of countless trifles learned by hard work, and the result, perfection, is no trifle, as has been often said.

And while on this subject of work I must tell the young actress that there can be no half measures in it for her. Success in her chosen career means endless personal sacrifices. No girl can attend continuous dinner parties and dances, either while she is rehearsing or while she is playing, and do justice to her work. No woman has vitality enough to live practically two lives. The flippant outlook which comes with gayety inevitably must blind any girl to the more serious phases of the theatrical profession.

On the other hand, an actress cannot shut herself away entirely from her fellow humans. To be a good actress one must understand people, sympathize with them and be interested in their big and little affairs.

However, it is not a sympathetic understanding of the drama of life about her which will jeopardize the future of the girl who hopes to become an actress. But indulgence in gayeties for her personal satisfaction can and will unfit her more and more for the hard work which is, upon the stage, the only means to success.

The woman who succeeds on the stage, more than in any other profession I know, must love her work so well that she can sacrifice all ordinary pleasures to her work and still be happy.

In-Shoots

The dressmaker cannot paint a landscape, but she can regularly land something that seldom comes to the average artist.

Things can appear to come our way and yet float over our heads.

There is no place like home—after the saloons have closed for the night.

Of course, the bird in the hand that is stamped on the back of a coin is worth two that are beyond the range of our ammunition."

Experience usually flattens the bumps of confidence.

When a reformer gets into office he is generally content with a few alterations of things.
